INVASION PLANS HOLD WAR SPOTLIGHT

MINE OWNERS SPLIT ON UMW PAY DEMAND

Portal-to-Portal Issue Causes Dissension as Men Return to Pits.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, June 7— Disagreement among the soft coal operators threatened today to toss a monkey wrench into collective bargaining negotiations as most of the nation's 500,000 miners returned to work under their latest strike truce.

Interest in the wage dispute shifted from the miners, whose "no contract, no work" stand last week left war production plants less than 10,000,000 tons of coal, to the operators, who were reported divided on the question of whether to seek a new contract at the conference table or ask for adjudication of all issues by the war labor board.

While there was no clearly defined geographical division, most of the northern commercial operators were represented as feeling the portal-to-portal pay issue should be settled with the union in negotiations scheduled to resume today.

Want WLB Ruling

A large segment of the southern operators, on the other hand, was reported holding out for a referee's ruling by the WLB, an agency which United Mine Leader John L. Lewis has denounced as prejudiced.

Reports from the coal fields indicated near-normal production was being resumed after a six day interruption.

Only scattered breaks in the back-to-work front were indicated by an early-morning survey. A UMW local at Houston, Pa., representing 800 men voted yesterday not to resume work until a contract is signed, and three large Ohio mines employing 2,730 of that state's 21,000 miners likewise were idle. A local dispute kept 1,060 employes of a Pennsylvania anthracite colliery away from work.

The miners returned to work at the direction of President Roosevelt, but union leaders, in acceding to the President's wishes, set a June 20 deadline for settling their demands for a $2 a day wage increase.

Anti-Strike Bill Pressed

Setting of this new deadline, with its threat of another walkout two weeks hence, aroused congressional demands for speedy enactment of anti-strike legislation designed to prevent just that.

A possibility the war labor board again would order negotiations between the miners and operators suspended was raised also by the setting of a specific deadline. In directing a halt in the talks last week, the board assailed the tactic of "bringing to the bargaining table the threat of a strike." Bargaining under such a condition was described by WLB as coercive.

An optimistic note sounded by John P. Busarello, president of UMW district 5 in Pennsylvania,

MORE U. S. TROOPS REACH NEW ZEALAND

Go Into Training for Action Against Japanese.

By The Associated Press

A large body of American troops recently arrived in New Zealand from the United States and is undergoing intensive training alongside veterans from Guadalcanal preparatory to being sent to a combat zone, Rear Admiral Theodore Wilkinson, deputy commander in the South Pacific area, announced otday.

This disclosure, implying that new blows against the Japanese were impending, coincided with the United States Pacific fleet, had Admiral commander-in-chief of the United States acific fleet, had arrived in the United States for the latest of a series of worldwide allied strategy conferences.

In the Solomons American dive and torpedo bombers sank a Japanese destroyer, set fire to a cargo ship and a corvette and shot down 15 Zeros in air battle off Bougainville island, the Navy announced yesterday. Four American planes were lost.

The Japanese version, given by the Tokyo radio today, claimed 20 allied planes were shot down in the encounter.

In the North Pacific, the Navy told of resumption of intensive air attacks on the Japanese base of Kiska in the Aleutians. Kiska was under air assault five times today, the communique said.

War Reunites Men Who Fought Together in 1917

ARTHUR E. RIDENOUR AND MAJOR G. B. DUBOIS

Newspaper Article Leads to Reunion of Soldier of Last War and Marion Engineer Depot Officer.

By BOB BYRD

World war II has brought together for the first time in 26 years a Washington, D. C., Army officer and a Marion county man in the ranks who battled together with distinction in the first World conflict.

The Marion county soldier of the last war is Arthur E. Ridenour of the Green Camp and Owens road in Pleasant township, now operating a farm and doing his bit for the war effort on the food front.

The officer is Major G. B. DuBois of the Marion Engineer Depot, who was a first lieutenant in the engineer corps in the last conflict.

Several weeks ago Mr. Ridenour read a news story in The Star about an account of a Lions club meeting at which Major DuBois had been the speaker. That name called up memories that had been given little thought for many years. He put down the paper, went to a framed military citation among his records at home and looked at the signature. Yes, the initials were the same. He had remembered his commanding officer in the last was was Lieut. DuBois, but not until he checked the similarity of initials was he reasonably sure the Major DuBois now stationed at the Engineer Depot was his old unit commander.

Mr. Ridenour got in touch with Major DuBois and they arranged for a visit. The accompanying photograph was taken when they got together at 341 Mt. Vernon avenue where Major DuBois is staying, to talk over old times.

Incidents Recalled

Major DuBois clearly remembers the incidents that led to his giving Pvt. Ridenour his World War I citation. The citation itself tells the story as follows: "Arthur E. Ridenour, 6th Engineer Train, U. S. Army. Battle of Marne, Battle of St. Mihiel, Battle of Meuse-Argonne, Army of Occupation. During the battle of the Marne, with great courage and utter disregard to personal safety, he ran ammunition and engineer material to troops on the front lines. On Oct. 16, during the Meuse-Argonne offensive, he drove his truck along heavily shelled roads, pased within 200 yards of enemy machine gun nests and delivered much needed engineer material to troops in the vicinity of Cunel. The successful accomplishment of these missions had a great bearing on the success of the operations of these troops." This citation of bravery and devotion to duty was signed by First Lieut. DuBois.

When the two men started recalling World War I experiences, they helped remind each other of scores of interesting events. However, two of these, one in particular, stood out above the rest, one of them winning a silver star medal for the then Lieut. DuBois.

The 6th Engineer Train went into action in the Chateau Thierry area to blow up a railroad bridge that help stop the Germans at the Marne in a great defensive battle. Then, on July 14, 1918, came the big Marne offensive when the Allies wanted to cross the Marne and engage the Germans rather than merely keep the Huns halted on the other side. Getting across to other side meant a bridge had to be built, but there weren't materials nor facilities for such a job.

No Time Lost

The engineers, adopting one of the old army policies that "we do the impossible immediately, the miraculous takes a little longer," took a quick inventory of the materials at hand and went to work. Yankee ingenuity resulted in a bridge, and what a bridge it was. It was made almost entirely of empty 12-gallon gasoline drums, telephone wire and saplings. It was thrown across a 240-foot river under heavy enemy fire from the opposite bank and across it trotted 50,000 soldiers in one night to take up pursuit of the

Nazis Miss Point in Arguing Their Troops Will Hold

By DEWITT MACKENZIE

What justification is there for the German claim that even though the allies invade southern Europe they will find the axis armies unconquerable?

That assertion was made in a Berlin broadcast, picked up by The Associated Press. A commentator was discussing invasion articles in the German army organ Die Wehrmacht. He admitted that the allies might make a landing somewhere but declared they "would not have the slightest chance in battle against the axis continental armies with their millions of well-trained and well-equipped troops."

Well, the answer to that is the key to the defeat which the United Nations are now in process of administering to Herr Hitler.

The Boche are arguing from a premise which might have been sound a year ago but no longer holds good. They're clutching at straws which already have been swept past them down the stream.

One Point Missed

It is a fact—and one not to be overlooked—that the fuehrer's most powerful weapon is his army, although what once was the mightiest fighting-machine ever put together is now showing many signs of wear and tear. It's true, too, that the allies would be up against a terrific task if they were faced with the necessity of smashing that Nazi army with land forces alone. Hitler might be able to defend himself indefinitely.

The point is that he would be sitting inside a great defensive circle. His communications would be short and he would be able to fling his forces in any direction quickly to meet attack. All his war industries would be safe inside that ring. The allies, on the other hand, would be striking them from the outside of the huge perimeter, and their communications would be long and difficult. Such a German defensive program would be just about impregnable.

However, that's one of those "might have been" situations. As things stand, the allies aren't compelled to crush Hitler entirely with land troops. In fact, they can do a goodly portion of the job in a much easier way. That's by bombing.

You will note that the Berlin commentator assumed his master's troops would be "well equipped." He overlooked the fact that Hitler's iron ring, for defense against a land army, renders his entire set-up vulnerable to bombing in view of the shift of the balance of air-power to the allies.

Air Supremacy Helps

The United Nations now can reach Hitler's communications and war industries across all parts of the circle. When they achieve their invasion of southern Europe they will add further to their facilities for reaching every axis manufacturing center and line of communications. Air bases in northern Italy, for instance, would be a tremendous asset.

The day and night blasting which the Anglo-American and Russian airforces are administer-

LARGE FORCE OF U. S. AIRMEN GOES OVERSEAS

American Flying Strength in Britain Is Increased by Another Contingent.

By The Associated Press

LONDON, June 7—The Eighth U. S. Army air force was expanded today by the arrival of another large contingent of airmen and equipment, and already-feverish invasion speculation was heightened by Prime Minister Churchill's continuing round of conferences believed to bear directly on the Washington war strategy meeting and his visit to North Africa.

For military reasons the strength of the U. S. air unit was kept secret, but it is known bombers and their crews have streamed across the Atlantic as the weather improved and that ground personnel, bombs and other equipment have been arriving regularly.

The lull in the aerial onslaught to soften Europe for land invasion continued into its ninth day. The last heavy rains were May 29, when U. S. fliers hammered Rennes and St. Nazaire and the RAF smashed at Wuppertal.

Bad weather over the continent was given as the reason for the lay-off, although there was some speculation the heavy bombers had shifted to the Mediterranean area for concentrated action on that potential invasion front. The Daily Mail said the RAF had a new bombing policy—giant raids aimed at Obliterating a large industrial center in a single night.

The RAF struck at channel shipping and French coastal districts Sunday and Nazi fighter-bombers hit a southeast coastal town, which the German radio said was Eastbourne.

The invasion guessing continued in London's press, with the Daily Herald declaring Gen. George C. Marshall, U. S. Army chief of staff, probably would head Invasion forces in the Mediterranean theater while a British general might direct any invasion against the northern Europe coast.

The Daily Express said the North African conferences, attended by Churchill, Gen. Marshall and Gen. Sir Alan Brooke, "put the finishing touches to the United Nations' summer campaign," and that Lieut. Gen. Mark W. Clark's Fifth U. S. army would play a large role.

The invasion-conscious Germans clamped another state of emergency on the Norwegian port of Bergen, a potential landing point, and it was disclosed that German defensive demolitions had placed a 600-yard wide belt, with anti-tank ditches more than a mile from the sea, clear across the four miles of the Hague, Holland.

The Morocco radio reported new mass arrests of persons along the French coast who might have aided allied invaders. A Spanish report said Gibraltar was practically bare of shipping.

Another Division To Bear Famous Rainbow Name

By The Associated Press

MUSKOGEE, Okla., June 7 — A rainbow in the sky—the omen that impressed the Rainbow Division of the First World war—has returned to inspire the second unit to bear that famous name.

The new division will be activated at Camp Gruber July 14, the 25th anniversary of the old outfit's advance into the Champagne front.

The Rainbow division originally was so named because it drew its men from many different sections of the nation, but—

"It is a historical fact that in overseas action during the first World war the Rainbow division consistently was greeted by a real rainbow in the sky before embarking on every important mission," Capt. Harry Gowdy of the infantry school, Fort Benning, Ga., wrote Brig. Gen. Harry J. Collins, commanding general of the new Rainbow division.

Gowdy, once a big league baseball player, should know. He was a color sergeant in the old Rainbow outfit.

"This is significant," Gowdy wrote, "because it appears the same harbinger of good fortune will accompany the new Rainbow division. On May 10th, the first day of the activation of the officer cadre of the new Rainbow division at Fort Benning, there appeared in the sky a beautiful rainbow over the barracks occupied by the officers of the division."

21 St. Mary Seniors Receive Diplomas In School's Sixty-Third Commencement

Rev. Father Mindrup of Carey Seminary Is Speaker; Awards Presented to Four Graduates.

By EDNA S. DUTTON

"My Son, from thy youth up receive instruction, and even to thy gray hairs thou shalt find wisdom." Taking as the theme of his address these words from Ecclesiastics VI-18, Rev. Father Mark Mindrup, O.M.C., of the faculty of Our Lady of Carey seminary, admonished the 21 graduating seniors of St. Mary Parochial High school, to "be true to yourself, give your support to your government, let religion play an important part in your lives and in the lives of those who might later come under your influence and be forever grateful to your pastor, to your parents and your self-sacrificing teachers," at the school's sixty-third annual commencement exercises yesterday afternoon in St. Mary church.

The exercises, held at 4 o'clock, concluded with solemn benedic-tion, prayers for peace and prayers for the men in the armed forces. Rev. Father William J. Spickerman, pastor, was the celebrant for benediction, Rev. Francis Latimer, assistant pastor, deacon, and Rev. Francis Lay, assistant, sub-deacon.

Awards Presented

Rev. Spickerman presented the diplomas and also the high school honors. Catherine Ann Nugent and Marie Granger received gold medals for general excellence and awards for perfect attendance throughout the high school course were received by Ann Fleck and Margaret Ann Luke.

Servers in the sanctuary were Robert Pruzzo, Patrick Bray, Gene Norris, Charles Madaris and William Huber.

One of the graduates, John Huber, who registered at Draft Board 2 on his eighteenth birthday anniversary Feb. 1, is expecting to be called for service in the near future. Donald Moran will report to his draft board in November and Donald Berridge in August.

The student body preceded the graduates into the church to the processional by Elgar, played by Miss Rosaline Manzo, who presided at the organ for the graduation exercises and benediction. The students sang the hymn, "O Make Me Love Thee More and More," Abel, and for benediction "Ave Verum," Elgar, "Tantum Ergo," Verdussen, and "Glorious Forever," Rachmaninoff. For the recessional, Miss Manzo played a composition by Read.

Rev. Mindrup paid tribute to the pastor, parents and teachers before speaking to the graduates. After calling attention to the necessity of the proper development of the heart and mind in order to cope successfully with the present-day problems, Rev. Mindrup told the graduates that in today's battle of wits it is usually the man or woman of character that will win out in the end. Christian education spells character, and he defined character as that quality in a person which prompts him to do the right thing at all times, in all places.

Enter Changed World

In addressing the class, he said: "When you leave from this school today you will step out into a world which has been vastly changed within the last few years. You will be expected to take your place in society as loyal citizens of your country. But you will not be loyal citizens unless you respect those in legitimate authority and obey their just laws. You must give your support to your government by an intelligent and conscientious exercise of your political rights, by voting and by contributing your share toward the expenses of your government. During these trying times, when the country is justly defending itself by means of warfare, you have the obligation to share in this defense. For some, this duty might even have to be fulfilled on the battlefront. For others, the obligation will be met by giving full cooperation to the government on the home front. For all, regardless of creed, there is the duty of getting down on your knees and sincerely praying. And your prayers should be offered not only for those who are at the battle front, but also for those who are directing the government and the policies of your country.

"Many Americans can profit from the following thought-provoking article printed in a English newspaper, written and published in England for Englishmen, and reprinted in an American publication: 'We have been a pleasure-loving people, forgetting God's day. We have preferred motor travel to church going. Now there is a shortage of motor fuel. We have ignored the ringing of church bells calling us to worship. Now the bells can not ring except to warn us of invasion. We have left the churches half empty when they should have been filled with worshippers. Now they are in ruins. We would not listen to the way of peace. Now we are forced to listen to the blitz way of war. The money we would not give to the Lord's work is taken from us in taxes and higher prices. The food for which we forgot to return thanks now is unattainable. The service we refused to give God now is conscripted for the country. Nights we would not spend in watching unto prayer are now spent in air raid precautions. The evils of godless modern ideologies we would not fight. Now see what Germany, the seat of this teaching has produced.

"Now is a good time for a little

MORE BLOOD DONORS NEEDED

Mobile Unit To Start Three-Day Collection at Epworth Church Wednesday.

More volunteers are needed to meet Marion's quota of nearly 500 blood donors for the visit of the mobile unit which will come to Marion Wednesday, Thursday and Friday, a check of registrations at the office of the Marion county chapter of the Red Cross, showed today. While the employes of the Universal Cooler Corp. have volunteered to make up the first day's quota, there is an urgent need for contributors for the remaining two days. The first day's quota of 160 persons, and the remaining two days 166 each.

Contributors may register either by calling the Red Cross office, 2439, or registering at the office in person. Persons having colds can not be accepted and the committee is asking that persons who have contracted colds since registering report this to the office so that a substitute may be obtained.

The unit will come to Marion from Columbus and headquarters will be set up in the basement of the Epworth Methodist church. The hours are Wednesday 12 noon to 5 p. m., Thursday 11 a. m. to 4 p. m. and Friday 10 a. m. to 3 p. m.

Assisting with the work during the three days will be the nurses aides who recently completed a Red Cross training course and received their certificates. Mrs. J. A. Dodd, chairman of the nurses aide committee, is asking that persons interested in taking the course, enroll for the new class now being organized. There is an urgent need for aides to help out in hospitals and in such vital wartime work as the blood mobile unit, she pointed out. Anyone interested in joining the class is asked to contact Mrs. Dodd or notify the Red Cross office.

Name Omitted From Scholarship Awards

In announcement of the list of Harding High school winners of Capital university scholarships published in The Star Saturday the name of Beneva Jones, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Jones of 550 North Main street, was accidentally omitted. Miss Jones is one of the eight Harding graduates of the class of 1943 to receive a one year's free tuition to Capital.

An error also was made in the report of the scholarship award to Miss Marjorie Schoonover. Mrs. Cecil Tripp was incorrectly listed as the mother of Miss Schoonover, whose mother, Mrs. Leona Schoonover, is deceased. Mrs. Tripp is the aunt and guardian of Miss Schoonover, who lives with her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Samuel B. Creasap of 242 West Columbia street.

An inquest will be held later, the coroner announced. State Policeman James Hagan said Billy was released in custody of his mother.

WON'T HEAD REGIME

GEN. ARTURO RAWSON

REVOLT LEADER RESIGNS POST

Gen. Rawson Steps Out In Argentina in Favor of Gen. Ramirez.

By The Associated Press

BUENOS AIRES, June 7—Arturo Rawson resigned as head of Argentina's new government today and charged Gen. Pedro Ramirez with organizing a new regime after the two revolutionary leaders had failed to agree on the constitution of a cabinet.

Rawson, who ousted President Ramon S. Castillo in a coup d'etat last Friday, was to have been sworn in as president at noon today.

In a brief communique, he announced "the impossibility of reaching an agreement on the constitution of a new cabinet" had compelled him to resign "as leader of the revolutionary forces and chief of the provisional government."

At the same time Ramirez, minister of war under Castillo and slated to hold the same post under Rawson, issued a statement advising the people and the armed forces he had assumed the powers abandoned by Rawson.

Holiday Called Off

He also announced postponement of today's scheduled swearing-in ceremonies for which a national holiday had been decreed. There was no indication as to when the Ramirez administration might be sworn in.

The rapid change in Argentina's confusing political situation followed by only a few hours the issuance of a decree by Rawson dissolving congress, which was to have convened tomorrow.

There were no further details on the disagreement between the two leaders of the revolution.

Some observers expressed the opinion, however, Rawson had been considered from the very first as not quite in line with the ultra rightist political tinge of his new ministers.

Ramirez was generally regarded

GROCERS PROTEST OPA PRICE RULES

Testify Many Will Be Driven from Business.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, June 7—Spokesmen for retail grocers told the house small business committee today thousands of them would be forced out of business unless OPA price regulations were changed.

First of a group of witnesses here for three days of hearings on the grocers' complaints, P. M. Brinker of Dallas, president of the National Association of Retail Grocers, said OPA price-margin rulings were so impractical as to lead to a suspicion they were drawn by someone whose "experience in the food line has been with his feet under a table, pulling the meat off a chicken leg."

"Small business is everywhere on the defensive, fighting a desperate rear-guard action for survival," Brinker said.

Brinker recommended that all food controls be placed under one head and prices be set at the producers' levels, with markups in the retail and wholesale fields to be added.

W. D. Hadeler, secretary of the California Retail Grocers and Merchants association, San Francisco, told the committee that the present pricing plans do not allow margins sufficient to permit retailers to stay in business.

PANTELLERIA STILL UNDER HEAVY ATTACK

Air and Sea Attack and Allied Strategy Parley Focuses Attention on Invasion.

By The Associated Press

Pantelleria Island, the "Italian Gibraltar" which has been all but pulverized by weeks of aerial and naval pounding, bore the scars of a new round-the-clock American bombing offensive today as a continuing series of strategy conferences focused attention on allied invasion preparations.

Pantelleria, standing on the possible ferry route on an invasion army, underwent a series of heavy assaults both through Saturday night and Sunday, an allied headquarters communique said, while U. S. airmen from the desert air force pounded with their four-engined bombers at both sides of Messina strait, between Sicily and the Italian mainland.

Other war headlines:

Invasion—Prime Minister Churchill's busy round of conferences in London after his return from America stirs speculation that new phases of allied plans are being put in readiness.

Air War—Lull in aerial assault on Germany from British bases stirs question, "where is the RAF?" Aroused speculation that British air force may be shifting bases for concentrated blows from other directions. Arrival of large contingent of American airmen strengthens U. S. air force in Britain.

Argentine Question Mark—Misgivings as to complexion of New Argentine regime heightened by new upset; Gen. Arturo Rawson, leader in four-day-old revolution steps out in favor of Gen. Pedro Ramirez in disagreement over formation of government.

Russia—Russians announce 752 Nazi planes destroyed in week of fierce aerial warfare on eastern front.

Pacific—U. S. Pacific commander-in-chief, Admiral Chester W. Nimitz, hints mysteriously at carrying "trouble to the Japanese," says Pacific area is getting its share of U. S. men and supplies.

Solomons—U. S. navy announces Japanese destroyer sunk, corvette and cargo ship set afire, 15 planes shot down in air battle of Bougainville island. Four American planes lost. Japanese claim 20 allied planes shot down.

Aleutians—Kiska again target for continuous aerial assaults, raided five times by American airmen on Friday.

China—Chinese expand gains in counteroffensive in upper Yangtze.

The aerial assault on Pontelleria island followed its fifth bombardment in a week by units of the British navy.

These attacks obviously were designed to knock out the island's defenses preparatory to actual landing attempts.

In all phases of the war Italy's position appeared to be growing more desperate.

Largest Fort Formation

The largest formations of American Flying Fortresses ever sent from Africa flew 1,400 miles, round trip, Saturday to the naval base of La Spezia to fumble heavy cargoes 2,000-pound bombs on a concentration of Premier Mussolini's battlefleet.

Some of the returning airmen said bombs fell among three 35,000-ton battleships, the Littorio, Vittorio Veneto and the Roma, damaging at least one and possibly all three, damaging a heavy cruiser, blowing up a merchant ship and doing great damage to port installations.

A British admiralty communique yesterday said one submarine had shelled an airfield on the North Corsican coast, while others had sunk six ships, damaged a seventh and probably torpedoed an eighth in forays into the Gulf of Genoa, Caanila bay, off Monte Carlo on the Riviera, the Gulf of Policastro south of Naples, and the straits between Sardinia and Corsica.

The axis continued to pour air strength into the defense of Pantelleria and some fierce air battles ensued.

The allied communique said eight of the enemy fighters were shot down and the Americans lost one plane.

The fiercest battle occurred when 50 American Liberators at-

Poll Measures Roosevelt Prospects for 4th Term

By GEORGE GALLUP
Director, American Institute of Public Opinion

PRINCETON, N. J., June 7—Throughout the nation the political question discussed most often today is this: What are President Roosevelt's chances of winning a fourth term if he chooses to run?

The President's first hurdle is to obtain the nomination of his party. On that score, the present evidence from Institute surveys shows that if the rank and file of Democratic voters were to decide the matter, the President would win the nomination easily.

The important question is whether, having obtained the nomination, he can win the election against a greatly rejuvenated Republican Party which has control of the state organizations of 24 states. Here again the views of the voters as gathered by the Institute show the direction of public thinking today.

Just as the war was to a great extent instrumental in giving President Roosevelt a third term in 1940, so the course of the war will likely determine his chances for a fourth term. In 1940 the President's strength as a third term candidate took a sharp upturn when the war passed from the "phoney" stage to the critical stage with the fall of France.

Looking ahead of 1944, three possibilities lie open in regard to the war situation. Each would have its effects on the political campaign.

First, the war may be over by election time. Second, the war may be still in progress about as it is today, without reaching a final or decisive stage. Third, the war may not be entirely over, but its end may be definitely in sight.

The reaction of the voters of the country to each of these three situations sheds light on future trends. A study of their reactions has just been completed by the Institute.

Since only those persons who are in a position to vote next year will decide the fourth term issue at the polls, the following figures are based on the voting population alone. They show the division of sentiment among those voters with definite opinions.

"If the war is over and President Roosevelt runs for a fourth term next year, do you think you will vote for him or against him?"

"If the war is still going on and Roosevelt runs for a fourth term next year, do you think you will vote for him or against him?"

For	56%
Against	44

These results confirm an earlier survey conducted three months ago showing that Roosevelt's popular appeal is substantial with the war still going on, but that he would run badly if the war is over.

In comparison with the earlier study the most recent figures show that the President has lost ground as a candidate if the war is over—a fact which may reflect growing discontent with the Administration's domestic policies.

Third Situation Visualized

The situation which many observers believe to be the most realistic possibility for 1944 is this: the war may not be over but it may look as though it will end soon.

To determine what public reaction might be in that contingency, interviews for the Institute in all the 48 states put this issue to the voters:

"If the war is not entirely over next year but looks as though it might be over soon, do you think you will vote for or against Roosevelt for a fourth term?"

For	51%
Against	49

In view of the fact that a Democratic presidential candidate must have a popular vote majority of approximately 52 per cent in order to win enough electoral votes to be elected, it can readily be seen that the 1944 election may be a battle royal with neither side having any marked advantage at this time.

The three studies provide, of course, only a very general indication of trend at present. In addition to events at home and abroad during the next 16 months, the choice of candidate by the Republicans will have a vital bearing on the country's preference for either of the two parties. Future surveys will give periodical re-appraisals of voting sentiment.

Lesson of 1940

The impact of war on President Roosevelt's political fortunes was clearly demonstrated in the race for a third term in 1940. Before the break in Europe in September 1939, [illegible] throughout the country [illegible] wanted only a third term if it was first [illegible] that price to 10% [illegible] gain to grow. Bonds AND Taxes?

The tax burden is heavy on every one of us, and it will be heavier before the war is over. And the taxes we pay are a direct, all-out contribution to Victory, there's no doubt about that.

But let's not confuse War Bond buying with tax-paying. War Bonds are NOT a contribution; they're a saving plan, and we'll get our money back with interest. Taxes AND War Bonds? Of course!

Several Marion industries have asked the Chamber to make an appeal to its membership for man... the bulletin states. Two plants especially want men for assembly jobs on a late afternoon and evening shift. The nine-hour shift could be divided by two men who feel that they could devote but four or five hours per day. Men of any age who are American citizens and not now employed in a war industry are eligible for the work. No mechanical skill is needed. In addition to assembly jobs, there are a number of opportunities for men who have some skill.

June 14 Flag Day

The downtown business establishments are urged to fly their American Flags on June 14, which is Flag Day. Both the President and Governor Bricker have made this request.

The bulletin also announces that Chamber officials, together with city and county officials, plan to attend a one-day post-war planning conference to be held in Columbus June 24th. The meeting has been called by State Highway Director H. G. Sours.

The total poundage is 815,000. All 38 members of the bureau reported.

Experts Advise Against Extra Finish on Cattle

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., June 7—Ohio farmers were urged today to forego attempts to put extra finish on cattle despite high prices on the Chicago stock market.

L. P. McCann, animal husbandly specialist at Ohio State university, asserted present price ceilings didn't permit packers to pay sufficient premium for highly-finished cattle to make it worth farmers' efforts.

"The cost of putting gains on fat cattle increases progressively, making the last pounds the more expensive," he explained.

He added that because concentrates were scarce and high-priced, farmers should pasture cattle to lower protein food requirements. After pasture grass matures, protein should be fed cattle along with grain, McCann said.

CALLS FOR FARM WORKERS GROWING

Coordinator Asked for Dozen; Able To Supply Two.

Calls for immediate farm help and inquiries for future extra agricultural laborers were received by the recently appointed special county farm assistant, O. E. Barks, this past week.

Mr. Barks was able to find only two men for positions on county farms although about a dozen county farmers contacted him and Arthur Smith, county agricultural extension agent, concerning emergency farm labor. The two men farm labor Coordinator Barks placed will do regular farm work and will probably work permanently on their assigned farms.

Owner of one county farm, north of Marion, informed Mr. Barks he will need some 30 school boys in about a week to pick strawberries. Very few city pupils have indicated a desire to work on a farm this summer as yet but Mr. Barks expects a large number to register with the United States Employment Service in the farm labor division this week.

Another county farmer will need about eight persons, not necessarily school boys, to help with cutting potatoes for planting in the near future. From July 1 to Aug. 1, harvesting time, Mr. Barks expects the largest number of calls for emergency farm labor.

84 LOSE LIVES IN SHIP BLAST

Ammunition Laden Freighter and Tanker Collide on East Coast.

By The Associated Press

NORFOLK, Va., June 6 — Eighty-four men lost their lives in terrific explosion and blazing oil when an American tanker and an American freighter loaded with ammunition collided in the dark a few days ago off the United States east coast.

The navy announced the collision yesterday and said an investigation is being made.

So tremendous were the explosions that debris was showered on the decks of a coast guard ship a quarter of a mile away.

The blast killed 60 of the 69 men aboard the freighter, tore the ship to pieces and sent her to the bottom almost immediately after the collision. Eighteen of the tanker's 82 seamen perished in the flames.

The victims included 35 members of navy gun crews.

The two ships, survivors said, were proceeding in opposite directions when the freighter veered suddenly and rammed her bow into the tanker's port side.

Deck Cadet W. J. Leonard, 21, of Malverne, N. Y., who was in the tanker's wheelhouse said the freighter's course was changed suddenly and the ships came together in a glancing blow.

The report [illegible] department said [illegible]

"The ammunition [illegible] quickly ripped everything to pieces and a sheet of flame swept through while I was on the bridge. The captain, the first mate, the third mate, [illegible] and two lookouts were in the house.

"I believe they were all lost. They must have smothered in the flames."

The deck cadet [illegible] the ammunition hatch, jumped overboard and later climbed into a life raft carrying about 20 men. They were picked up by a [illegible] ship.

Marion Vurnell, 39, of Hopkinton, Texas, a fireman, was asleep on the ship. Awakened by a shipmate, he flew from the [illegible] to the deck.

"I saw three men dead on the poop deck," Vurnell said. "I saw three [illegible] were navy gunners. One had his arms and leg blown off."

Vurnell, finding the [illegible] on fire, leaped over the side and swam for more than an hour before he was rescued.

The entire merchant crew of 41 and 25 of the 28-man gun crew aboard the freighter were lost.

The Navy said crew lists were not available.

Ohio Girl Feared Lost in Maine Lake Mishap

EAST SEBAGO, Me., June 7 — Hope for the safety of two young college students, who disappeared while canoeing in Sebago lake, faded today after a thorough search failed to produce any trace of the two.

The students were Miss Margaret Richards, 22, of Granville, O., and Robert Dwight Ware Jr., 20, of Yale university and Winston-Salem, N. C. Miss Richards is the daughter of Denison university's dean.

Deputy Sheriff C. Lowell Barnes said his fruitless search for the two started yesterday after their upset canoe and its paddles were found floating on the water near here.

The students were attending a conference of the New England Student Christian movement.

Boutwell, who made the news headlines when she became the first Ohioan with six sons in service, is enroute to the Mare Island Naval hospital in California to visit a son, Seaman Second Class Kent Boutwell, 20, who was seriously wounded in South Pacific naval action last October. Kent suffered a fractured skull, and shrapnel wounds that resulted in a severe leg injury and a paralyzed right arm. At the present time, Mrs. Boutwell has four other sons in active service, one at home with a medical discharge because of a knee injury, and a daughter, Anna Joan, in the WAVES.

U. S. PACIFIC FLEET TAKES ON STRENGTH

Will Reach Formidable Power by End of Year.

By The Associated Press

BERKELEY, Calif., June 7 — The U. S. Pacific fleet, steadily being reinforced, will reach a new peak of strength by the end of the year, Secretary of the Navy Knox's commander-in-chief, Admiral Chester W. Nimitz, who is in the mainland to confer on new offensive moves against the Japanese, said today.

Admiral Nimitz disclosed his presence in California in a surprise appearance at the University of California commencement exercises during which he was awarded an honorary doctor of laws degree.

Speaking to a university alumni meeting, the admiral explained, "much as I desire to be here, I couldn't have left my post unless I had a job to do. I am happy that commencement day coincided with a conference which I have been called on to attend—conference which is not particularly solicitous as to the welfare of Hirohito, and which I hope will carry trouble to the Japanese."

He did not amplify.

The Pacific fleet commander denied supplies for fighting Japan are being neglected.

"By the end of the year our planes and ships in the Pacific will represent a very formidable force," he said. "We are really getting our share of the war material in the Pacific."

Although he declared the Japanese are on the defensive and "time is working for us now," the admiral warned that "we must do everything in our power to aid China, because we must use bases in China to attack Japan."

He explained that in addition to [illegible] their defenses, [illegible] American forces [illegible] Japan, and that [illegible] navy and my air [illegible]

I've been looking at a car that wasn't there

I WENT window shopping again yesterday.

I stared into a big, empty automobile showroom downtown—and pretty soon I saw a car.

She was kind of different from the bus I'm driving now: She was long, sleek and powerful-looking. The windshield sort of went clear around her, so that everybody inside could see out everywhere. There were no gears to shift. The cooling system was sealed—you never touched it from one year to another.

She had synthetic rubber tires you couldn't puncture—and that wear like iron. And fast? Man! The motor was only half as big as they are today—but how it would take the old girl along! And on one gallon of that new high-octane gas to every three my car uses now.

So—I made up my mind to buy her, then and there. And I will, too. One of these days, after the war's been over for a while, I'll walk in and drive her home. And I'll slap the money for her right down on the counter.

You see, I'm in the Payroll Savings Plan. Been in it ever since it started in my plant. Every single payday, I'm tucking away all I can in War Bonds.

That money's going to come back to me in ten years—and bring more money with it. Four dollars for every three.

I get a real kick out of thinking how that money's piling up for me. Money that's going to let me have some of the things I've always wanted to have—do some of the things I've always wanted to do.

Chances are, you're already in the Payroll Savings Plan—buying War Bonds—doing your bit. But don't stop there. Raise your sights! Do your best!

How millions of Americans have done their bit—and how they can do better:

Of the 34 million Americans on plant payrolls, nearly 30 millions of them have joined the Payroll Savings Plan. (If you aren't in yet—sign up tomorrow!)

Those Americans who have joined the Plan are investing, on the average, 10% of their earnings in War Bonds. (If you haven't reached 10% yet—keep trying!)

BUT . . . . . .

America's income this year will be the highest in history: about 125 BILLION dollars! In spite of all taxes and price rises, the average worker will have more money than last year—more than ever before!

That is why Uncle Sam has a right to ask us, individually, to invest more money in War Bonds, through the Payroll Savings Plan. He asks us to invest not 10% or 15% or 20%, but all we can!

YOU'VE DONE YOUR BIT --- NOW DO YOUR BEST!

Saturation Point

AFTER studying the probabilities of the higher income tax collections smuggled into the compromise bill still awaiting the President's signature, most taxpayers agree with the congressmen who have been talking about a saturation point in direct taxation. At the same time they feel nervous about the prediction by other congressmen that the next move will be a still further increase in income tax rates imposed on the concealed increase brought about by the decision to recover 25 per cent of the revenue due on 1942 incomes while taking 100 per cent of the revenue due on current income.

If a saturation point has been reached, undoubtedly the next great tax argument in congress and throughout the country will be over a federal sales tax. Even that would be only a drop in the bucket, unless put into effect at an unprecedented rate. The treasury estimated more than a year ago that a retail tax of 10 per cent, exempting sales to the federal government and to state and local government, on commodities alone (not services) would produce less than six billion dollars. According to official fiscal plans, at least 13 billion dollars of additional revenue will be needed.

The sales tax is unique among pending ideas for improving the fiscal position of the United States. While it has existed as a possibility since income tax revenue began to decline during the depression, it has no friends or supporters. All politicians, spokesmen for labor, friends of the common man, taxpayers and forward lookers are unalterably opposed to it. They have thought up dozens of excellent reasons why the sales tax never should be given a second thought, but like virtue—or perhaps sin—it keeps bobbing up for further consideration. There is only one argument in its favor; it produces revenue. According to the old-fashioned notions of taxation, that is a compelling argument, which explains why the sales tax probably will be considered. Producing revenue in wartime is an old-fashioned necessity.

June Offensives

JOSEPH E. DAVIES is quoted as confident that Germany, which failed in two previous summer offensives to break Russian resistance, can't succeed this summer either. His opinion, made public after conversations with Premier Stalin, carries weight.

It will be noted, however, that a summer offensive is expected. The striking power of the Axis on the continent has not been shattered. Even the likelihood of an Allied invasion has not changed the prospect of at least one more massive German drive into Russian territory.

While little has been heard recently of Japan's probable plans for the summer, other than the opinion of Kilsoo K. Haan, Korean political leader, that an attack on the United States is scheduled, it must be assumed that Japan will not lose the war by default. Like Germany, its best chance is aggression. Like Germany, if Japan adopted defensive strategy its doom would be certain and would be so construed by the Japanese themselves.

Only Italy, of the original Axis powers, has been knocked out of the war as an offensive threat. All the speculation of months now comes to rest on a well defined point in time, the month of June, which almost certainly will bring the beginning of the climactic action of 1943. Whatever summer offensives are scheduled, either by the Axis or the Allies, will have to get under way this month.

Submarine Break

IF encouraging reports of a sharp decline in the effectiveness of Germany's submarine warfare are sustained throughout the summer and at the same time Germany loses its power in the air at the rate recently apparent, its last hope of winning the war will be shattered.

On the strength of the lesson learned in World war I, Hitler's new military adventures relied heavily on submarine to reduce British resistance and hold the United States at a distance. As in the other war, the submarine threatened to do the job. Its depredations have been so serious they have been referred to only by implications that they constituted the worst news of the war.

Confident assertions that the sinking rate of merchant ships is declining while the destruction rate of submarines is increasing will have a greater effect on German morale than any other single item of war news. It was at this point in World war I that the threat to the Allies disappeared and the specter of defeat came to hover over Germany.

News Behind the News

New Post-War Social Security Bill Seen as Costly with Benefits for Few.

By PAUL MALLON

WASHINGTON, June 7—The American Federation of Labor has come forward with a new social security bill (Wagner-Murray-Dingell) to which the government privately contributed the services of its expert social security technicians.

This is the plan, the counterpart of the supposedly sensational Beveridge plan in England. It represents the current theory of economic liberalism that a nation and its people will be helped and will make progress if all the workers pay a big tax out of their pay envelope in return for some promised future benefits.

In this case, the workers would pay the colossal sum of $4,000,000,000 a year (enough to run the whole government of the Coolidge era, with $1,000,000,000 left over) and the employers $4,000,000,000. The tax would be 12 per cent, half on the worker, half on the employer.

The total collection of $8,000,000,000 a year (enough to run the [illegible] in one of its average [illegible] years) would be in addition to all federal income and state taxes.

Sees New Beneficiaries

Everyone would pay in, but few would take out. The benefits promised include the usual ones of old age and unemployment, and many new ones including medical and hospital insurance, disability and even care during maternity difficulties.

These protections against the hazards of existence are those which each man has attempted to provide for himself in all the history of the world up until recently, and which each man could hereafter provide for himself if he could get the security of a good job at good pay.

This primary job-pay requirement for security is not included in the plan, but if the government is able to maintain a reasonably prosperous country, obviously most of the workers will never need any of these federal benefits, or be satisfied with the remittances proposed.

Even in the worst of the last depression, only one-fifth of the workers were unemployed. If this proposal were applied to that most favorable period of direst need, it would still be a tax on all workers for support of one-fifth of the workers.

How the liberal politicians have been able to sell this matter as a business proposition to union labor (CIO indorses it), is something I cannot understand in view of the fact that most of the skilled AFL workers cannot expect to be out of jobs, and may die before reaching old age, retirement or resist retirement as most men do.

Money Out of Business Channels

Worst of all, from the labor standpoint, is the removal of $8,000,000,000 a year from business channels, thus diminishing the field of labor employment by that amount.

Worker chances of getting much good out of the scheme are furthermore reduced by current economic trends toward an even higher price level which may make the dollars that they pay in worth only half as much in terms of bread, meat and clothing ten, twenty, or forty years hence when the few who want government help demand their remittances then.

I think the explanation probably is that the workers think they are getting something for nothing because they are forcing the employer to contribute half.

The truth about this, of course, is that the workers' wage rates and further wage increases depend on the employers' ability to pay them out of profits. To this extent, the workers are limiting themselves against future wage increases, in return for doubtful benefits for a few.

Present Plan

They should see, if the liberals do not, that under the current social security system, the federal government has collected $2,000,000,000 a year in tax from them and paid few benefits to few people. No one can contend that social security, as so far practiced by the government, has brought any real security to the people.

To date, it has largely been a measure for collecting taxes amid inflationary price advances nullifying the small benefits increasingly.

Yet they call this liberalism and progress, and the liberal press advertises it as a positive guarantee "eliminating insecurity in post-war USA." A truly liberal outlook would demand action today—not on these uncertain taxing insurance plans—but on the real essentials of future security, which are:

(1) A good job, a good wage.

(2) Guarantee against increasing prices, which nullify wages.

(3) Repayment on the war bonds in which the savings of the country are largely invested, dollar for dollar on a stable price basis.

A real security program for all the people based on these factors will be submitted in the column tomorrow.

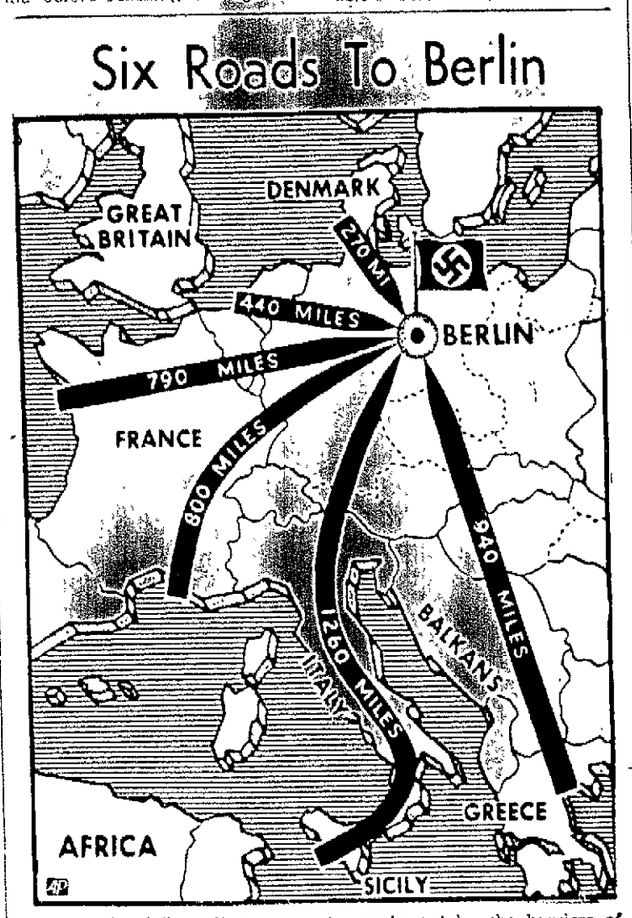
Six Roads To Berlin



Associated Press Features

These are the distances which stretch between six possible invasion beachheads in western Europe and realization of the pledges by United Nations leaders that allied soldiers will march through the streets of Berlin. Some of routes are complicated by the barriers of mountains, broad rivers, narrow defiles and rough terrain, in addition to Nazi-made fortifications, so that some of the longer ways 'round might in actual operations prove the shorter way home to the final target.

"KING FOR A DAY"

Private Enterprise Need of Post War Era

By John W. Hanes in Barrow's Financial Weekly.

MANY bureaus in Washington are making grandiose plans to provide post-war jobs for all Americans. Nobody questions the vital necessity of providing the post-war jobs. But the Washington planners propose to employ them on "public works" projects into which billions of dollars will be poured.

In this practical approach to the post-war problem of employment, a former undersecretary of the United States treasury, a widely known student of finance and well known in investment circles, asserts that government spending if continued after the war can lead to national ruin.

Before the war ends the government will already have borrowed some 300 billion dollars. With our financial senses dulled by 10 years of federal prodigality, many of us don't realize the consequences of that disastrous and unprecedented debt. But thoughtful economists are already profoundly worried about it. How, they wonder, can our nation survive os crushing a burden? The planners' answer is — borrow more; on top of the billions borrowed for war pile additional billions of peace-time debts!

In planning post-war jobs, one basic distinction should be understood by every citizen: the fundamental difference between a government borrower and a private business borrower. The difference may be as great as between national prosperity and national ruin.

When a corporation borrows a million dollars and builds a factory it produces goods. It sells the goods at a profit. Thus it sets for itself an income out of which it can pay the interest on the money it borrowed and ultimately the debt itself. But the government save in exceptional cases, builds no factories, opens no stores. It produces no goods and few services which it offers for sale. Hence the money it borrows creates no revenue out of which the interest or the debt can be paid. The government can get money to pay the interest only by taxing it out of those individuals and private industries that are paying their own way. As it taxes them more and more heavily to pay interest on an ever-increasing debt it makes it harder for them to pay their own way. Such government borrowing, then, eventually becomes not only sterile in itself but also destructive of the consumer's purchasing power and of the fertility of private enterprise.

THERE is another difference, even more important. If I, as a private citizen, borrow a million and spend it on charity —inventing jobs for men — I do a certain amount of good. But when the million is spent my charity is at an end. If I wish to keep on hiring those men, I must borrow and spend another million. Now suppose, not as charity but as a business proposition, I borrow a million and build a factory. I hire men to build it and operate it. I buy raw materials, produce goods and send them to market. With the money I receive for my product I can go on hiring the men and continue to buy raw materials. I have created an organism which is an instrument of continuous wealth production and continuous employment.

The government does not create this kind of enterprise. It borrows money and spends it perhaps on many useful things. But these things do not produce revenue for the government. Hence, when the borrowed million is spent, if the government wishes to continue to hire the people it must borrow again — and again and again. Dollars spent in private enterprise keep people working indefinitely; dollars spent by the government provide only temporary work.

There is another difference. The interest on a moderate government debt is not serious; but when the interest gets bigger than all the other expenses of the government it becomes a perpetual national headache. At the end of the war, the interest on our national debt, at 3 per cent, will be nine billion dollars. That means that you and I will have to pay in taxes, to cover the interest alone (without reducing by a dollar the total of the debt) more than the greatest amount of taxes ever levied for all purposes before Pearl Harbor!

At the bottom of this is the central fact that private business is an "investor," the government is a "spender." When you pay out money which you never expect to see again either in principal or profit, you "spend" it. You may spend it wisely or foolishly; but in either case it is gone. Some so-called "new economists" say that building a park, a road, a playground is an "investment." But this is only juggling with words. Government money spent for a playground may pay "dividends" — in better citizenship; but this is not investment in the true economic sense. You "invest" when with your money or labor you create an organism which produces wealth and income. Private business does that; government does not.

THERE is one more great—and sad—difference between national spending and private investing. When a private corporation becomes crushed under debts, it can go into bankruptcy and have them wiped out. The private lenders lose. But the corporation may proceed, unencumbered by debt, to a new long life of usefulness. This has happened at one time or another to most of our railroads.

National government debt, on the other hand, is fixed and irrevocable. If it becomes too big to handle, the government cannot go into bankruptcy. It must extinguish the debt by the violent and destructive process of inflation. This happens when the government, needing astronomical sums, can no longer get them in taxes or loans from the people, and has to borrow inordinately from the banks. The resulting inflation puts the government's books in shape, but it proves ruinous to the people. Wages never keep up with the skyrocketing prices, so even though the worker may find more money in his pay envelope he can buy less and less with it. Millions receiving wages or salaries or fixed incomes are reduced to direst poverty; the prices of even the plainest necessities of life soar out of reach of their pocket books.

Such is the inevitable consequence of our post-war planners' "new economics." There is nothing new about it. Every European nation has used it during the past century. Italy tried it before Mus-

Experts on Japan

By DAMON RUNYON

On Pacific Coast Our Little Brown Brothers Have Numerous Friends Among the Newcomers.

I TOLD you in this column some time ago that powerful influences were at work bringing about the return of the Japanese relocation centers to the areas they came from before the war and that they might even return. This has now become quite apparent to people of the Pacific coast.

With every indication pointing to the retention of the Japanese war lords' bombing expeditions and probably ground marine forays against the west coast, attempted invasion by no means impossible, these influences persist to a startling degree. They are political, financial, even social.

The Japanese who lived in Los Angeles, San Francisco, Seattle and other cities of the coast—bankers, merchants, professional men, farmers—had considerable weight in all these fields through business associations and otherwise. They had strong friends among those who found the business associations profitable and who have quietly carried on certain propaganda to create sympathy for the Japanese. Internment is what these amounts to.

The friends of the Japanese secured reached high places in the government. Even of the Japs appears so imminent that the Pacific coast newspapers are yelling murder, police. At least a couple of Congressmen are squawking furiously in Washington. The public is protesting in letters, editors and otherwise.

THERE is no certainty that the combined protests will have effect. Although the Pacific coast is definitely a war zone and may become actually a combat zone, there is certainty Washington will not permit it to be to be filled by thousands of representatives of enemy people, among them some undoubtedly disloyal and bitter toward the United States.

It would be impossible to watch all of them. The possibilities of spying and sabotage would be unlimited. Some residents of the Pacific coast even object to the presence in that region of Japanese who are in the United States army, pointing out that enemy Japs have many of their soldiers in the Philippines and that introduction of their spies in this garb would be easy. Thousands of Japanese soldiers were educated on the Pacific coast and not only speak English perfectly, but are familiar with the coast area.

The promotion of Lieut. Gen. John L. DeWitt to a post that will take him from his place as head of the western defense command is not disquieting to the west coasters who oppose the return of the Japs. Dewitt wanted no Japanese in his zone, whether they were born in Japan or in the United States. If his promotion is really an advancement, no one on the Pacific coast would complain, but if, as many suspect, it is a removal because of his sentiment about the Japanese, the westerners think it is reason for alarm.

MANY residents of California, especially those who came from other sections of the nation, have always opposed the ingrained opinion of the majority of the native sons and sentiment that the Japanese are undesirable.

The majority of the native sons have grown up disliking the Japanese, though they went to school with them and played with them. They may have had close friendships with individual Japs, but they never fancied Japs in the mass.

On the other hand, the Californians in adoption have viewed the Japanese as a polite, industrious people who raised good vegetables and made good houseboys. Association of the Californians with the Japanese was not as close as that of the native sons and their opportunities for observation and study of the Japanese character not as good. It is from them, however, that much of the propaganda and some of the influence in favor of the Japanese has come.

It is strange that the greatest experts on the subject of the Japanese in the United States are not the people of the Pacific coast who have known the Japs all their lives, but newcomers to the coast and transient easterners or southerners who have briefly viewed the inmates of relocation camps and then based reports and recommendations.

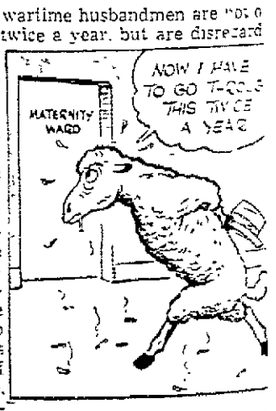
Double-Duty Sheep

By H. W. BLAKESLEE

Associated Press Science Editor.

NEW YORK—England has some surprising sheep. They are producing two crops of lambs a year. In all history sheep have always produced lambs only once in a year; and in the northern hemisphere this lambing season is spring.

The English wartime husbandmen are not only getting lambs twice a year, but are disregarding the spring season too, spacing the lambing throughout the year. That means more lamb chops.



The story is told in Monthly Science news, a British publication. The doubled lamb production is due to use of a hormone, from the pituitary gland at the base of the brain, of the follicle-stimulating hormone.

Follicles produce the eggs which become lambs when fertilized. The hormone makes the ewes' follicles more active, and at any season of the year. It is given easily, by a hypodermic.

The source of this hormone is pregnant mares which have a large supply of the substance in their blood serum. The British publication says use of the hormone may also cause cows to have twins and sometimes even quin calves.

So They Say

After this war we will need all the democratic folk there are. Military necessity may require the starvation of Europe if by doing so you could starve the enemy, but you must realize that in any event. You can only starve the freedom-loving people who are on your side. To render them helpless now is poor strategy. —Dr. Howard E. Kershner, former head of Quaker Relief in Europe.

If the United Nations leave Japan free to consolidate her gains it will not only strengthen Japan's position, but also aid Hitlerite Germany. Since the conclusion of the Axis tripartite economic pact at the beginning of this year Japan has been trading her surplus materials in occupied countries for Germany's high technical skill.—Shao Yu-lin of Chinese ministry of foreign affairs.

In order that these men may be trained in this field, meetings are held the first and third Thursdays in the month at which time they are instructed by competant men in work pertaining to their duties.

After attending five such instruction periods the men are eligible to obtain authorization cards and arm bands and will be sworn in as auxiliary policemen. Equipment consisting of helmets, sticks, belts etc., will then be issued to them.

The need for a second shift auxiliary police is readily acknowledged by army and civilian authorities since recent developments in aerial warfare does not uphold the theory that bombing must be done at night to be effective.

More Recruits Needed

Recruits for the group are needed immediately. Anyone interested in becoming an auxiliary policeman can obtain information by calling the Office of Civilian Defense, or any of the officers of the organization.

Officers were elected at the Thursday night meeting at the Eagles hall. The city was divided into six districts, and R. L. Ruhlman and Harry Creekbaum were elected captains of three districts each. Five lieutenants were elected. One to be in charge of two districts. They are: Gerald Messenger, Berkely Smith, Henry Stone, H. F. Miller and R. H. Prettyman.

Ten sergeants were also selected—two sergeants to work under each lieutenant. They are: Ted Clellan, Orville Hazen, Douglas Montague, A. F. Noble, Irvin Taylor, Kenneth Davis, C. L. Metz, Paul Marshall, Harold James and Charles Samples.

Home Canner's Manual: I

How To Enjoy Your Garden All Winter

By DOROTHY SHANK
U. S. Bureau of Human Nutrition
Written for AP Features

Home canning this summer will enable many a victory gardening family to keep on enjoying the garden long after summer is gone. Many a non-gardener, too, will buy fruits and vegetables to can when they are at their best. It is expected that the amount of home canning done will break our national record.

When mapping a home canning campaign, a good starting point is to plan for tomatoes and fruits. These are the easiest foods to can. The same equipment does well for both.

Tomatoes in particular deserve a big and special slot on a canning list. You can hardly have too many jars of canned tomatoes. They offer flavor and bright color when combined with many of the bland foods. And, more important, tomatoes are one of the good sources of Vitamin C. Vitamin A and important minerals which are not affected by canning.

Victory gardeners have the opportunity to pack tomatoes and fruits garden-fresh. The old rule, "Two hours from garden to can," is still good timing. For canning you want food in top-notch condition—fruits firm and ripe, vegetables young and tender.

Safe and Satisfactory

A safe and satisfactory way to can tomatoes and fruits is in a boiling water bath canner. For this you can use a wash boiler or any large kettle, if it has a well-fitting lid. Provide a rack made of wood or wire, so that the jars will not touch bottom. The canner must be deep enough so that one or two inches of water are over the jar tops.

Preheat food so that it is boiling hot when you fill the hot jars, ready to process them. By heating the food before processing, you shrink it somewhat, and that means you can put up more to the jar than if you use the raw pack method. Shrinking the food is useful economy these war days when glass jars are estimated to be adequate in supply only with the proviso that we use all jars we have with due care.

When canning berries that are quite soft, it is better to pack them raw—an exception to the general rule.

For canning fruit in wartime, sugar is a special problem. This year, as last, sugar for home canning is obtained through local ration boards.

Sugar Ration Sufficient

With last year's experience behind us, we know that fruit may be canned acceptably on a war ration of sugar. The wartime proportion of using 1 pound of sugar to 4 quarts of finished fruit allows for covering fruit with a light or medium sirup. Heavy sirups, once lavishly used to cover fruit, are out of style for the duration. With less sweetening, the fruit's own flavor often has a better chance to "shine."

Fruit may be preheated either in juice or in sirup or water. Juicy fruit will often yield enough juice of its own to provide the hot covering liquid that is poured over solid foods in each jar.

A little sugar helps canned fruits hold their color and flavor but the sugar is not really necessary. It does not keep the fruit from spoiling. If you have fruit to can, and no sugar to sweeten it, by all means save the fruit. Put it up unsweetened; and when serving time comes, draw enough sugar from the family's weekly sugar ration to sweeten the fruit for eating.

Some people find it convenient to use honey or corn sirup to make canning sugar go farther. If you do this, keep within the limits that will yield good results: Use honey to replace up to ½ the sugar called for in the canning; or use corn sirup to replace up to 1/3 of the sugar. Sirups and sugars that have a strong flavor of their own, such as molasses and maple, are not suitable for canning fruit. And don't use brown sugar; always use white.

solini: the old government floated dangerously on public debt. In the end this paved the way for fascism. Since Mussolini came to power, public debt as a prop to business has been an essential element of fascism. France, from 1820 to the eve of World War II, continuously increased her public debt. Twice she sought escape in inflation. She is going through her third escape. The German government after World War I used it, and Germany's economists began preaching then the "new economics." Hitler adopted their theories. Germany has had one disastrous escape through inflation, and will have another.

DESPITE such ominous precedents, our own "new economists" in Washington propose to go on borrowing billions for post-war work projects as permanent national plan. They say this is necessary because our private enterprise system, is drying up. They lament that never again will we see the many opportunities for investment that appeared in the past. The frontiers are gone. There are no longer any great inventions like the railroad and the automobile to change our forms of life and produce endless opportunities for the private investor. Therefore, they say, the government, when the war ends, must do what it is doing now—it must borrow all the savings of the people which private industry cannot absorb and spend them to create employment.

But we have seen that government-made work on borrowed billions does not produce, as private industry does, prosperity, but leads ultimately to catastrophe. A government that lives on borrowed dollars lives on borrowed time.

Is it not clear then that the one big problem of this country on the material side is to get the creative process of private production and distribution of wealth started again? In all the planning in Washington it is singular that nobody seems to be planning to accomplish this. And this is because at the bottom of all the planning that is going on is the conviction of the planners that private enterprise as a dynamic instrument is done.

That doctrine of despair has been preached before, in our own history, and has been disproved by the irrepressible creative genius of our people. Today industrial leaders know that possibilities for post-war expansion are greater than ever. There can be new inventions, new products, new services, that the bureaucratic mind would never conceive, but that the system of competitive enterprise invariably creates.

So I believe that the first thing to do is to put the planning for the future in the hands of men who do not think we are washed up, who are convinced that with vision and resolute leadership, American business again can lead the way to post-war prosperity.

SHIP SWITCHOVER EASES IRON DEMAND

Engine Casting Cancellations Reported in East.

By The Associated Press

CLEVELAND, June 7—Some eastern foundries have received substantial cancellations of castings for Liberty engines as a result of changes in the ship program from Liberty to Victory vessels, the magazine Steel reported today.

"This has caused some change in need for pig iron, though supply is not beyond demand," said the weekly review of the steel industry. "Pig iron distribution is being made smoothly under the allocation plan and all users are receiving their requirements.

"Various changes in war strategy are being reflected in the industry, causing uncertainty in various departments as adjustments are made, though all-over demand is not affected and no additional steel is being released for civilian use.

"A case in point is found in the severely curtailed landing mat program. As a result some producers of hot-rolled sheets who were booked solidly through third quarter and beyond have been able in the past few days to accept some tonnage for July delivery. Gaps caused by cancellation of landing mat steel have been filled promptly in most cases and in general it is difficult to get sheets on current orders before September for hot-rolled and stainless grades and before August for cold-rolled."

The rate of steel production declined one-half point last week to 98½ per cent of estimated capacity, due mainly to open hearth repairs. Cincinnati rose 10 points to 94 per cent. Wheeling gained one point to 94, Pittsburgh slipped a half-point to 98½, Cleveland dropped a half-point to 85½, and Detroit's rate was off 14 points to 80. Youngstown was unchanged at 97.

THE Prospect Street Methodist church was the scene of the marriage of Miss Margaret Dietsch, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. F. Dietsch at 260 Linden place, and Fred D. Evans of Columbus, yesterday afternoon. Closed church was observed for the double ring ceremony, read at 2:30 o'clock by the pastor, Rev. Henry Klag, assisted by Rev. E. J. A. St. Leger, pastor of Grace Methodist church of Lima.

Palms formed a background for the couple at the altar and white tapers held in candelabra. Miss Robert Rice, a cousin of the bride who had the organ-ist, played a half hour program of wedding music and Mr. Rice sang "Indian Love Call," "Because" and "One Alone." The organ numbers were "Liebestraum," "Tee Reverie," "Evening Star," "Dearly Beloved," "Tou jours L'Amour" and "I Love Thee Now." For the processional and recessional, Mrs. Rice played the traditional wedding marches.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, was gowned in a white satin dress fashioned on princess line, with leg o' mutton sleeves and short train. The skirt extended into a long train. Her long veil was caught with clusters of orange blossoms and her Colonial bridal bouquet was of white roses held with satin streamers.

Miss Marian Gooding, who was maid of honor and the bride's only attendant, wore a gown of blue frosted organdy made with a tight bodice with a sweetheart neckline and a full shirred skirt. Her Juliet cap had a blue veil and she carried a bouquet of red roses.

John Evans of Joliet, Ill., brother of the bridegroom, served as best man. They are the sons of Mrs. Ethel Evans of 259 South Prospect street. Ushers were Emerson Dietsch, brother of the bride, Paris Rose and Henry Miller.

For her daughter's wedding Mrs. Dietsch chose a black taffeta dress with a lace blouse effect and black and white accessories. The bridegroom's mother wore a sheer navy blue and white print with a white background with black appliqué. Corsages of Bride Rose and Shasta daisies were worn by the bridal party.

Following the ceremony there was a reception for 75 guests in the church basement where garden flowers carried out a decorative theme. Presiding at the table were Mrs. Mary Haberman, Mrs. Lena Bricker, Mrs. Madeline Dietsch, Mrs. Fred P. Haas and Mrs. Hazel Shroats. When the couple left later on a wedding trip the bride was wearing a suit in a forest green shade with luggage tan accessories and a corsage of Talisman roses. Upon their return they will be at home at 1014 Walnut street in Coshocton, where the bridegroom is employed in the home office of the Ohio Hardware Mutual Insurance Co. The bride formerly was employed at the Marion County Bank.

Out-of-town guests included John B. Evans of Joliet, Ill., Mrs. J. G. Hanlin and daughter Maxine, Mr. and Mrs. L. E. Heinke and son Lowell, Mrs. Rachael Roberts, Mrs. June Smith, Miss Lois Porteus, Miss Donette Hammand, and Miss Onieta Hamilton of Coshocton; Mr. and Mrs. Fred Bolenbaugh, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Bolenbaugh and Mr. and Mrs. Robert Bolenbaugh of Marysville; Mrs. Lawrence Farrington, Mrs. Louis Farrington and daughter, Marilyn, Mr. and Mrs. A. D. Brown of Richwood; Mr. and Mrs. Earl Everett and daughter, Mary Jo of Bucyrus and Mr. and Mrs. B. M. Bricker and daughter, Jean Ann of Green Camp.

HUSBANDS of the members were guests when the Child Culture league entertained with a dinner Thursday evening at Ringer's Inn. Following the dinner, served at tables decorated with colorful spring flowers, the evening was spent with games and contests. Awards were won by Mrs. Ernest Cooper, Mrs. Orville Manbeck, Earl Davey and V. D. Felt. Arrangements for the party were in charge of Mrs. W. E. Smith and Mrs. Ira Sauter.

Mrs. Marie Eshman of Monroe street was hostess to the Au Fait club Thursday evening. First and low hand awards were won by Mrs. Emma Gruber, second by Mrs. Audrey Lloyd and third by Mrs. Eshman.

Mrs. Elsie Lee Webster of 606 East Mark street was married to Joseph Case Socie of Columbus, Sunday at 4 p. m. with Rev. M. E. Hollensen reading the service at Emanuel Lutheran church. Mr. and Mrs. Willard B. Henney, daughter and son-in-law of the bride, were the only attendants.

The bride was costumed in a navy blue gown with white accessories and wore a corsage of gardenias. Mrs. Henney wore a yellow dress with white accessories and had a corsage of baby blue iris.

A six o'clock dinner was held after the ceremony at the home of Mr. and Mrs. G. B. Henney of 324 Windsor street. The table was centered with a wedding cake and decorated with roses.

Mrs. Socie is a member of Lodge No. 531, A. F. of M. and has been active as a professional musician in Marion. Mr. Socie is a member of Local No. 189, plumbers and steam fitters union of Columbus and is engaged in war construction work.

The program was assisted by Mrs. Dorothy Pluchel and Miss Margarite Barkley. Guests were George Pluchel Jr., Nancy Pluchel, Gene Young, Nancy Lou Tower, Mr. Pluchel and Mrs. Barkley. The next meeting will be July 7 at the home of Mrs. Charles Brady on Scioto road.

Weddings

Announcement is being made here of the marriage of Miss Mae Louise Foster, daughter of Mrs. Homer Foster of Bloomingburg, Ohio, to Ensign Harold LaMarr Wilhelm, son of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred B. Wilhelm of Columbus, formerly of Marion. The ceremony was performed May 29 in the Bloomingburg Methodist church by Rev. J. H. Baughn.

A half hour of music preceded the wedding with Mrs. Joreph Allemang, aunt of the bride, at the piano and Miss Janice Wilson singing. Standards of white carnations and gladiolus were placed against a background of ferns and garden flowers to decorate the altar and tall cathedral tapers in two seven-branch candelabra were lighted.

The bride wore a chartreuse suit of cotton taffeta made with full skirt and fitted jacket closed with two buttons of brilliants, a lace vest, and her flower was a single purple orchid. Her accessories were of white and she wore a white straw hat trimmed with tiny chartreuse velvet bows and a nose tip veil. Miss Mary Kathryn Foster, sister of the bride, maid of honor, wore rose silk crepe with navy accessories and a corsage of yellow rose buds and painted daisies. Lt. David Knowlton of Columbus, stationed in the U. S. Navy at Panama, was best man and David Comey and James Welsh of Dayton were ushers. Joseph Allemang, uncle of the bride, gave her in marriage.

Following the ceremony Mrs. Foster and Mr. and Mrs. Allemang were hosts at a reception in the church parlors. The wedding cake was decorated in pink and white. Miss Jean Garringer and Mrs. David Knowlton presided at the table.

The bride attended Ohio State university and was graduated from the White Cross hospital school of nursing in Columbus. She has been a supervisor in the hospital there. Ensign Wilhelm was graduated from Ohio State, where he was a member of Tau Kappa Epsilon fraternity and was employed at Patterson Field in Dayton for a year before being commissioned in the Navy. He is now assigned to the bureau of aeronautics in Philadelphia, Pa., where he and Mrs. Wilhelm will live. The couple had a short wedding trip.

Among out-of-town guests present for the ceremony were Mrs. C. L. Hart, Frank W. Wilhelm, Mrs. Phillip Broods and daughter Dorothy and Mrs. Harold Lill and son Bobby of Marion.

SHORTAGE OF GRAIN FACES HOG RAISERS

May Force Underweight Pigs on Market.

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, June 7—With the profit involved in feeding corn to hogs currently much lower than a year ago, and with some livestock producers encountering difficulty of obtaining the yellow grain, agricultural observers today predicted farmers might be forced to liquidate underweight hogs.

Declining profit margins in feeding corn to hogs has resulted from a drop in hog prices while corn has remained unchanged at ceilings. The difficulty in obtaining corn for feeding arises from the unwillingness of many farmers who have a surplus of the grain to sell it at the present time.

Cargill, Inc., one of the country's leading grain elevator companies, said today, "the tight feed situation and the poor feed crop prospects in many sections are resulting in farmers disposing of some of their livestock, especially hogs and cattle."

"This situation may eventually mean a serious blow to the food supply of the nation," the company said.

The corn-hog ratio, which measures the value of corn against the price of live hogs, is now 13.5 to 1 at Chicago—which means that 100 pounds of live hog are worth 13½ bushels of corn. A year ago the same weight of hogs was worth 18½ bushels of corn. The current ratio is still considered profitable for livestock producers.

However, the ratio is not a completely accurate reflection of the slump in hog values, according to some observers. It is computed on the basis of ceiling prices for corn, but in some areas hog producers who need corn are said to be paying above the maximum in order to get it. Thus their profit margins are further lowered.

The late spring and floods have delayed corn planting and many farmers want to see how their new crop develops before marketing the stocks they have on hand from the old crop.

Prospect Woman, Marion Man Are Joined in Marriage

MISS FLORENCE ALMENDINGER, daughter of George Almendinger and the late Mrs. Almendinger of near Prospect, became the bride of Raymond D. Hinklin, son of J. H. Hinklin of 140 West Walnut street, yesterday afternoon in St. Paul's Lutheran church at Prospect. Rev. Paul E. Dobberstein read the single ring ceremony at 3:30 o'clock before an altar lighted with candles and banked with palms and white peonies.

The bride, escorted to the altar by her father, wore a gown fashioned of white satin and chiffon, with a sweetheart neckline and full skirt which extended into a slight train. Her fingertip veil of bridal illusion fell from a tiara of seed pearls and orange blossoms and she carried a colonial bouquet of white roses. Her jewelry was a pearl necklace, the gift of the bridegroom.

Preceding the bride down the aisle was Mrs. Donald Hedges of Prospect, matron of honor, and the bride's only attendant. Her gown was of rose slipper satin fashioned on lines similar to the bride's dress, and her blue veil was held with a coronet of blue flowers. Blue painted daisies fashioned her bouquet.

Richard E. Meister of Greenville served as best man for the bridegroom and the guests were seated by Harold Gix of Columbus and Marion E. Hinklin of Marion, brother of the bridegroom.

Mrs. Richard Curren of Marion presided at the organ and played a program of bridal music. Her selections included "At Dawning," Cadman, "Intermezzo," Provost, "Estrellita," Ponce, "Evening Star," Liszt, "Indian Love Call," Friml, and "I Love You Truly," Bond. For the processional she played the "Bridal Chorus" from Wagner's "Lohengrin" and as the bridal party left the church "Wedding March" by Mendelssohn.

The couple received their friends informally at the church and later there was a reception at the home of the bride. Presiding were Mrs. Harold Gix of Columbus, Mrs. Edwin Probst, Mrs. Samuel Cook and Miss Mary Mehaffey of Marion, and Miss Esther Click of Prospect.

When the couple left on a short wedding trip the new Mrs. Hinklin was wearing a sheer navy blue suit with pink jabot and navy and white accessories. They will make their home with the bride's father.

The bride has been employed in the office of the county treasurer and Mr. Hinklin is employed with the Erie Railroad Co.

Little Chats on Public Notices

SAFETY IN DELAY

A man who has recently been through the settlement of two small estates is puzzled and somewhat irked at the time required. The affairs of both decedents were in good order, both left valid wills, there were no disputes and no particular complications. Yet one estate took more than two years to settle and the other more than one.

These being his first direct experience in such matters, he is inclined to blame the delays on needless red tape. In this he is mistaken. Possibly the time could have been shortened for these estates, but the law purposely—and wisely—fixes a minimum time in such matters.

A common purpose here is for the publication in local newspapers of general circulation of several Public Notices concerning each estate. One has to do with the appointment of the administrator, others with the presentation of any claims, and ultimately the final settlement. All this takes time but it is done to give maximum protection to all concerned.

MANEUVERS HELD SUNDAY BY CO. H

Crystal Lake Program Modified Because of Rain.

Plans for detailed maneuvers of Co. H at Crystal Lake were changed yesterday to a modified program because of the rain. The company marched in regular formation until they entered the south end of the park.

Lt. E. E. Smith was in command of the single advance guard with Sgt. Tim Fahey commanding the advance party. As the company entered the park, they were met by an enemy and were forced to find and capture the enemy scouts. The grounds offer perfect cover for such maneuvers and the exercise proved valuable.

Dinner was served by Sgt. Warren Hilt to 23 men and three officers and was followed by map reading under the direction of Cpl. Frank Furniss. A discussion was held on learning to march with the aid of a compass and locating a position.

Regular school will be conducted tonight at the armory and physical examinations will be held for all recruits. Replacements are needed to fill the vacancies left by members who are entering the service.

as having more pronounced rightist tendencies than Rawson, but the effect his leadership would have on Argentina's foreign policy was not immediately clear.

Watch Foreign Policy

(Dispatches from Montevideo said that observers there who are mainly interested in Argentina's foreign policy, said that nothing had yet happened either to confirm or deny initial assurances following Castillo's ousier that the revolution would mean the end of Argentina's aloof attitude toward Pan-American solidarity.)

Gen. Rawson gave no reason for dissolving congress, but it seemed logical to suppose the Ramirez government would not call it into session immediately, and that the democratic form of government would remain in cold storage during a period of readjustment, at least in domestic affairs.

Diplomatic representatives of other American republics have met three times since the Friday coup, but have maintained a "watch and wait" attitude. It was assumed they were awaiting the swearing in of a government when formal communications might be expected.

U. S. PLANES SUPPORT ADVANCE BY CHINESE

Aircraft Sweeps Yangtze as Japs Retreat.

By The Associated Press

CHUNGKING, June 7—American bombers and fighters supporting the advancing central Chinese armies on the western Hupeh front carried out widespread operations against the Japanese Sunday, a communique from Lieut. Gen. Joseph W. Stilwell's headquarters said today.

They swept the Yangtze from Ichang to Shasi, damaged one large boat and raked a gunboat with strafing fire, among other things, the communique said.

Chinese dispatches meanwhile said Chiang Kai-shek's forces were battering their way toward Hwajung, a Huna province town 100 miles southeast of the main Japanese base of Ichang. The capture of Hwajung, north of Tungting lake which the Japanese used as a springboard for their abortive offensive down the Yangtze valley, would greatly relieve the threat to the great China rice bowl. The peril already has been dismissed by retreat of Japanese forces in the general direction of the right bank of the Yangtze.

Hwajung is one of the main Japanese strongholds south of the Yangtze.

ALLIED BLOW THROUGH SPAIN FEARED BY AXIS

Observers See Report as Prelude to Axis Attack.

By The Associated Press

STOCKHOLD, June 7—Dispatches from Berlin and Rome today said axis leaders were expressing fears the allies may strike a hard invasion blow through Spain.

Observers here immediately surmised the reports, filtered through strict censorship, might be the prelude to German and Italian plans to march into Spain to set up air bases to defend the "European fortress" better.

It also was recalled that General Francisco Franco was reported to have said he would call on the other side for assistance, should the allies or axis invade Spain.

Rome dispatches said the Italian press had warned the allies may strike through Spain, still weak from the blood letting of the long civil war.

Spain would provide either belligerent with good air bases. For the allies, observers said, it would be an ideal bridgehead from which to furnish aerial cover for landing operations in western or southern France.

GERMANS SAY THIS IS ATLANTIC WALL GUN. The caption for this picture, which appeared in Vienna Illustrated, a GGerman magazine, says this is a long-range gun, a part of the Atlantic wall which "stands and protects Europe's west coast against any invasion attempt." The wall, the magazine says, "is the most gigantic system of all times" which "extends over a coast front of 2,700 kilometers and has reached its full combat strength."

ing to the reich is stripping Hitler of his ability to keep his army "well equipped." One of these days the cumulative effect of this aerial offensive is going to hit him all of a sudden and he will find himself with a wehrmacht which still will have great strength in manpower but will lack the arms with which to defend itself.

Then will be the time when the allies will send their own armies marching against the Hitlerian forces. Actually, of course, the terrific aerial and naval bombardments which the United Nations are laying down against the enemy, as further evidenced in today's news dispatches, are the preliminaries to invasion. That is to say, the invasion operations already are under way even though we can't foresee the exact moment of landing.

Meanwhile, with the allies holding aerial superiority—and outright supremacy in some areas like the North African theater—Hitler's Luftwaffe is unable to strike from within his charmed circle at the distant production centers of the United Nations. Our strength grows daily while his decreases.

Most of Ohio's 21,000 Miners at Work Today

By The Associated Press

BELLAIRE, O., June 7—A majority of Ohio's soft coal miners returned to work in accord with the deadline set by President Roosevelt for ending a nationwide strike, but three of the state's largest shafts were idle as diggers failed to enter the pits.

Company officials reported production at a standstill for the seventh straight day at Powhatan, Willow Grove and Rail and River Coal Co.'s No. 6 mines.

William Maloney, superintendent of Rail and River No. 6 said a full shift of workers reported this morning but "a division of opinion" kept them from entering the workings which employ 800."

Maloney said "about a third of the workers wanted to go in, a third was undecided and the other third went home."

At Athens, all Hocking Valley miners were reported back on the job. Some started work at midnight, others on the day shift this morning.

Adolph Pacifico, vice president of the United Mine Workers District No. 6 which includes Ohio and part of West Virginia, reported last night that unionists at Rail and River No. 6 voted to return today in line with the UMW policy committee's decision which followed the President's back-to-work order of last Thursday.

The failure of Powhatan mine—the state's largest—to reopen was attributed to the fact that unionsists there had already scheduled a meeting for 2 p. m., before the policy committee issued its back-to-work advice. Ray Fox, superintendent of Powhatan, said none of the workings' 1,300 workers reported today.

Edgar Brown, president of the UMW local at Willow Grove, reported 250 of the mine's 630 employes showed up this morning but returned home. Other Willow Grove union spokesmen, who declined to be quoted, said the men were disgruntled at the war labor board's order to cease negotiations until work is resumed.

Most other shafts in this rich eastern Ohio field which employs a majority of the state's miners resumed production in accord with votes taken at local union meetings last night.

Pacifico asserted that any miners who failed to go back would be called into the meetings today and urged to return at once.

self-examination on our part. What have we actually done to preserve true peace in our own hearts, our own homes, our own families? Have we selfishly always placed our needs first, without heed to the prior rights of God and the equal rights of our neighbor? If so it is time for us to do something about it. It is time for us to begin to be true to ourselves, by being true to God and true to our fellowmen."

In closing he said: "This parish is staking its honor upon you, for you graduates of today are the men and women of tomorrow. Guard and protect that honor and the pastor and parish shall forever be proud of you. In short 'this above all, to thine own self be true.' For if you are true to yourselves, you will do what you know is right, in all your actions. You will be loyal, just and honest with your fellowmen. You will be sincere and respectful citizens. And above all, you will let the standards and laws of God direct your lives."

Following the benediction the seniors assembled on the lawn at the residence of the Sisters of Charity where they received the congratulations of their relatives and friends and the young women received their flowers.

A high mass celebrated at 9 a. m. was offered for the spiritual and temporal welfare of the seniors. The class received holy communion in a body.

Later the seniors were guests of the sophomore class at a breakfast in Moira hall. John Werley, president of the sophomore class, was toastmaster and the welcome was extedned by George Paulson, vice president of the host class. The response was given by Donald Moran, senior class president. A tribute to Rev. Spickerman was given by Margaret Ann Luke and Rev. Spickerman responded with a talk, and a farewell to the class was given by Jane Sherer and the response by Marie Granger. Spring flowers and lighted tapers decorated the hall and the graduation theme was emphasized by two large figures dressed in caps and gowns. The programs, designed as a school, were in blue and silver the class colors, and bore the class motto, "For God, For Country, For St. Mary."

By The Associated Press

Ralph was sentenced to the Mansfield reformatory in 1930 for shooting two women who resisted his advances. He escaped, was returned and then paroled in 1941.

LONDON PAPER SAYS BRICKER LEAGUE FOE

Beaverbrook Daily Carries Story on Ohio Governor.

By The Associated Press

LONDON, June 7—The Evening Standard published today a dispatch by F. G. A. Cook, its United States correspondent in which he quoted Governor Bricker of Ohio as telling him in an interview that he was opposed to a post-war League of Nations and an international armed force.

Cook's account in the Standard, one of Lord Beaverbrook's newspapers, described Bricker as having the reputation of a man whose opinions are unformed and declared "certainly he is cautious when world affairs come up for discussion, but he is frank about the reason."

"I just don't know enough," he quoted Bricker as saying. Cook added, "One thing at least Mr. Bricker will talk about. He is inflexibly opposed to any form of an international armed force. A navy bigger than Britain's? An army bigger than Russia's? He just smiles."

(At Columbus, Bricker declared Cook's story was not correct.

("Those are not my words," the governor said. "They are strictly those of the writer, to whom I did not give any direct quotations. I did have an interview with Mr. Cook during which no notes were taken. It was just a conversation and the language of Mr. Cook's story was made up by him.")

Cook's story said Bricker suggested that there is danger that an international agency controlling an armed force "might use that force against the little nations but would hesitate to use it on you (Britain) or on us or on Russia."

"There ought to be means of implementing the worldwide desire of the people for peace," Cook quoted Bricker as adding in reply to the question of how much the United States should cooperate with the rest of the world. "There must be and you may be sure America will be in it * * * we are in this fight because we believe in (Anglo-Saxon) system and we will do our part when it's over; but no League and no international armed force.

"Americans will never surrender their own sovereignty or integrity any more than you would. We want no territory from anybody."

Cook's story said Bricker described the labels "isolationist" and "internationalists" as epithets without any real meaning. Cook said that Bricker did not believe the isolationists are as stupid, as ignorant or as nationalistically egotistic as their opponents think and quoted the governor as saying:

"Certainly I am neither. I am an American. I believe in our way of life, the Anglo-Saxon way—the British way if you like."

fleeing Germans, not giving them time to pause long enough to "dig in" and protect themselves sufficiently to make a stand.

It was this job that brought the silver star medal award to Lieut. DuBois.

The two men shared about every imaginable wartime experience together. The outfit was in the front lines eight months and 20 days, of which 122 days were in active engagements. It had heavy casualties, losing 22 men and 65 horses in one evening. It took part in six major battles.

The Engineer Train's job was to precede other troop units into battle, to blow out barbed wire entanglements and follow through with the tools and equipment needed by the infantry to prepare defenses and consolidate nearly-gained positions.

Lieut. DuBois' train was selected for extremely difficult tasks, and as a result he was given opportunity to hand pick his men. He went over the Sixth Regiment, selecting only men who were 5 feet 8 inches or more in height and who were physically equipped for a man-size job. Pvt. Ridenour wasn't the baby of the outfit by any means—he was 6 feet 1½ inches in height and weighed 185 pounds. "Slim was a damn good soldier," Major DuBois commented to a reporter who listened in on part of their reunion visit. "You could give him a job and forget about it, satisfied that it would be done and done well."

First Meeting

Lieut. DuBois and Pvt. Ridenour had their first contact in Washington Barracks at Washington, D. C., on Aug. 20, 1917. They were together in the 5th Engineer Train throughout the rest of the war, including service with the army of occupation.

After the war they went their separate ways, Ridenour back to Marion county and Lieut. DuBois back to Washington where he designed apartment buildings and other structures. Busy with civilian pursuits they had no contact with each other until their recent reunion here.

LUTHERAN CHURCH SCENE OF ORDINATION SERVICE

Rennix VanSoye Formally Inducted Into Ministry.

Ordination rites for Rennix VanSoye, son of Mr. and Mrs. H. G. VanSoye of Caledonia, a member of Emanuel Lutheran church here, were conducted yesterday morning in the church. Rev. M. F. Hollenson, pastor, read the rite of ordination following his sermon, "How Beautiful."

Bouquets of flowers stood at the altar and Rev. VanSoye was presented gifts from the Sunday school and from the congregation. He will take up the duties as pastor of St. Peter Lutheran church at Trenton, O., July 11.

Prior to his ordination into the Lutheran ministry yesterday he took his college work and seminary training in Capital university, Columbus, and in the Theological school there from which he was graduated May 27.

tacked Messina in Sicily, and San Giovanni and Reggio Calabria across the Straits in Italy. They encountered 30 enemy fighters. The Cairo communique said eight of the interceptors were shot down without an American loss.

Other Hits Scored

Hits were scored on railway sidings, oil installations and other terminal facilities, the communique declared.

RAF fighters also shot down two three-engined heavy bombers, in the eastern Mediterranean yesterday, it was announced. No allies planes were lost.

(The Italian communique asserted an allied submarine was sunk by the royal Italian navy in the Mediterranean.

(The Italians also said their fighter planes brought down four four-engined bombers and anti-aircraft guns downed a fifth in the allied raids on Messina, Reggio Calabria and other localities on the Messina strait. They acknowledged further bombing of Pantelleria.

(In the Pantelleria raids, the Italians asserted seven allied planes were brought down by their fighters and anti-aircraft guns. They said German fighter planes brought down two other bombers south of Sicily and a Spitfire near Lampedusa island. Three Italian planes were lost, it was said.

(Another Rome radio broadcast said 50 were killed and seven injured in the vicinity of Reggio Calabria.)

The aerial softening of tiny Pantelleria continued after daylight plane attacks Saturday which, in turn, had followed a dawn bombardment by the British navy—the fifth time in seven days its guns had thundered against enemy batteries on the volcanic Italian outpost.

The Italian batteries answered, but Sunday's communique said no damage was done the allied fleet.

Mussolini Bans Minstrels

Mussolini went so far as to ban strolling players of mandolins and other musical instruments to impress Italians with the grimness of the situation.

Stockholm dispatches said Berlin and Rome were suddenly concerned over the possibility that the allies would strike hard through Spain—a new direction of danger.

The strength of the new U. S. air contingent arriving in England was not announced, but London dispatches said a stream of American bombers and crews had been reaching England lately.

A big force of allied aircraft headed out over the English channel toward the French coast today.

Nervous over their northern defenses, the Germans were reported to have demolished a 600-yard belt four miles long through the center of The Hague in the Netherlands, in order to make room for a giant anti-tank ditch and other defenses facing the North Sea. A state of emergency was clamped on Bergen, Norwegian port.

The Russians said Germany's air losses last week brought to 2,821 the number of Nazi planes destroyed on the eastern front in five weeks. The Russians told of new aerial assaults on German airdromes behind the lines in the Lisichansk area of the Donets front.

"War Typewriter" on Display Today

"A Typewriter that has gone to war" is on display starting today in a Prospect street window of Uhler's Department store.

This display is a tie-in with the typewriter drive conducted by the war production board and the typewriter procurement division of the treasury department.

The drive, locally directed by J. Wendell Wiant, manager of Wiant's book store at 129 South Main street, and H. A. Johnson, manager of the Adding Machine & Typewriter Exchange at 126 Court street, is being conducted to collect machines from the home front in order to relieve the serious shortage of typewriters at the fighting front.

Nov. 25, 1903 she was married to Mr. Davis in La-Rue. She attended Epworth Methodist church and was a member of Circle No. 7 of the Woman's Society of Christian Service there.

Surviving besides the husband are the following children: William Kay Davis, a first lieutenant in the judge advocate general's department, Ann Arbor, Mich., Mrs. Jack Sweeney of Cleveland and Miss Doris A. Davis of Chicago, two sisters, Mrs. Harry F. Lust of Harding Highway west and Mrs. Iva Maxey of Springfield, Ill., and three brothers, Burrell Bowser of West Fairground street, Grover Bowser of Pearl street and Thomas H. Munitions Production Shows Gain in April

WASHINGTON, June 7—An encouraging note in the war production picture came today from Chairman Donald M. Nelson of the war production board, who reported that arms output in April increased 7 per cent over March. A record-breaking $5,000,000,000 worth of munitions was produced in April, with the aircraft program accounting for about one-third of the total, Nelson said.

In the senate, a bill to require senate confirmation of federal employes earning $4,500 a year is the first order of business. The measure may be laid aside temporarily, however, to permit immediate consideration of two big appropriations bills—$24,850,000,000 for the Navy and $820,000,000 for the agriculture department.

CONDITION UNCHANGED

Mrs. Gladys Davis Vance's condition was still critical as a result of self-inflicted bullet wounds suffered early Wednesday morning at her home on North State street, City hospital officials reported this morning. Police previously reported that Mrs. Vance admitted shooting herself in the head twice following a gas explosion which proved fatal to her husband, Farley L. Vance, 38, principal of Glenwood elementary school.

Little Grand Circuit Race Meet To Start Thursday

Horse Population Rises to 125 As Opening Nears.

PLANS for the start of Marion's 15-night Little Grand Circuit harness racing meet which opens Thursday night at Marion county fairgrounds race track entered the home stretch today. Virtually all plans were completed today for an elaborate opening of the meet, longest harness racing event in Marion county history.

Frank M. Foster, president of the Houghton Sulky Co. and race secretary in charge of arrangements for the meet, announced that Thursday's opening session and subsequent nocturnal programs will begin promptly at 8:15. With eight and nine dash cards arranged throughout the three-week stand each of the nightly programs to be staged under the fairground arcs will last for about three hours. Race officials hope to conclude each program by 11 p. m., or shortly thereafter.

Officials for the 15-night meeting are expected to start arriving today and all members of the staff are expected here by Wednesday. Joe McGraw of Washington, Pa., presiding judge, is expected to be among the first arrivals. Wayne Groves of Pinehurst, N. C., and Harvey Hartman of Quakertown, Pa., are expected to follow. They will serve as associate judges here, Steve Phillips of Erie, Pa., starting judge, is not expected until Wednesday.

Over the week-end the fairground horse colony zoomed from around 75-head to well over 125 with the arrival of 13 stables. Additional horses are expected throughout this week and still others are not expected to arrive until the start of stake racing, beginning Monday, June 14.

Week-End Arrivals

Heading the week-end arrivals was Tom Hogan of Chicago, Ill., Mark Kyler of Buffalo, N. Y., and Earl Roush of Canton.

Hogan, president of the Yellow Cab Taxi company of Chicago, arrived and on Sunday his stable of three arrived by truck. All three of the prize mounts in the Hogan barn have been purchased since April 1. Most of Hogan's stable including his champion pacer, Myrtle Scott, boasting a record of 2:08½, were lost in a fire at Van Wert last December.

Whiz, a seven-year-old 19 class pacer with a record of 2:04¾, heads the Hogan stable. Last year this bay gelding participated in 12 races, winning six and boosting its earnings to $1,234.65. The other two members of Hogan's stable, also pacers, are Volo Elworthy, a 22 class bay mare with a 2:09 record, and Miss Volo Guy, boasting a 2.12 record as an 18 class pacer.

Except for two days next week when he expects to make a short business trip to Chicago, Mr. Hogan will remain in Marion for the entire program.

Kyler ferried four head all the way from his winter training quarters at Hamburg, N. Y.. Sunday and after unloading at the fairground track early Sunday evening started back to Hamburg to pick up the three other members of the stable. These were expected to arrive sometime Tuesday.

In the Kyler stable are Professor, an eight-year-old 13 class trotter; Gordon, a 12-year-old 12 class paced with a record of 2:07; Sweet Revenge, four-year-old pacer with a mark of 2:09; Little Squaw, a three-year-old 22 class paced with a record of 2:12; and Sarah's Boy, a two-year-old pacer, Dexter Jr and Silver Elsie, both three-year-old pacers, all without records.

Most of the Kyler-owned oat-burners have worked around 2:17 at the Hamburg track.

Earl Roush, who trained this winter at the Stark county fairgrounds in Canton, has three head here now and expects to up this number to six before the start of the meeting. Present now are Todd Harks, a seven-year-old trotter with a record of 2:09½; Fay Crispin and Colleen Crispin, both five-year-old pacers. The Canton reinsman expect to add to his local staff Torrid Zone, a four-year-old pacer with a record of 2:06½, Tip Abbe, a five-year-old pacer with a record of 2:07½; and Frisco Lee, an eight-year-old trotter with a mark of 2:07.

Other week-end arrivals include R. C. Mentzer of Canton, Gabe Cartnall of Hanover, Fay Phillips of Red Key, Ind., E. D. McQuown of Xenia, Ray Seeley of Warren, Harry Reeves of Sylvania, E. L. Burrey of New London, Mirl Brooks of Fremont, Frank Parker of Bradner and William H. Roush of Athens.

Cincinnati Bound To Break Record in Sunday Game

By The Associated Press

CINCINNATI, June 7—Something had to give as the Cincinnati Reds went into the tenth inning deadlocked with the Boston Braves at three all in the first game of yesterday's scheduled doubleheader.

(Weather conditions halted the second game in the first inning.)

Up until yesterday the Reds had not won a Sunday game this season. Counterlikewise, they had not lost a single overtime affair this year—winning four over the extra inning route.

From the tenth on it was a question which of these two marks would be cast asunder. The answer came in the last of the fourteenth off that bat of Cincinnati shortstop Eddie Miller. With one out and the bases loaded, Miller patterned his third single of the game to bring Frank McCormick, Red first baseman across the plate with the game clincher.

The game was a pitcher's battle between righthander Elmer Riddle and the Braves' Hardluck champion Nate Andrews. Both made a wobbly start, the Braves collecting three runs on a pair of doubles by Eddie Joost and Tom Holmes and a homerun by Charlie Workman in the first inning. The Reds got two in their half of the same frame as Max Marshall walked and Gee Walker hit his first four bagger of the season.

A smart defensive move by Red catcher Ray Muller in the seventh stifled a Boston threat. Runners were on second and third with one down when Mueller called for a surprise pitchout which caught Rookie Elmer Nieman too far down the third baseline. Mueller ran him to earth unassisted and Bill Wietelmann popped to short center to end the inning.

In the ninth McCormick tied the game with a homerun.

The Reds will spend the next three days playing teams of the armed forces. They are scheduled to meet Camp Atterbury Ind., tomorrow, Camp Benjamin Harrison, Ind., Wednesday and the Great Lakes Naval Station, Great Lakes, Ill., Thursday, returning to the National league wars Friday in the first of four games against the Chicago Cubs in the Windy City.

INDIANS WIN FOUR OF 15 CONTESTS IN TOUR THROUGH EAST

Tribe Started Out in First Place, but Returned in Sixth.

By The Associated Press

CLEVELAND, June 7 — The Cleveland Indians returned from the eastern battlefronts today with few medals for gallantry in action.

The Tribesmen started their seaboard tour at the top of the American league but are now in sixth place.

Jack Salveson shutout the Philadelphia Athletics 5 to 0 in the nightcap of a double header yesterday after the Redskins had blown a four-run lead and lost the opener 12 to 5.

The Indians won only four of 15 engagements with eastern clubs and the 20-year-old Salveson pitched two of those victories.

The spectacled hurler, drafted from Oakland of the Pacific coast league, has been with Pittsburgh, Chicago and Washington but never unpacked his suitcase for any length of time.

Salveson also contributed to the Indians' second game offensive by slamming a fifth-inning homer into the upper deck of the left field pavilion. Roy Cullenbine and Manager Lou Boudreau also contributed round-trippers in the afterpiece.

The Tribe owned a 5 to 2 lead going into the seventh frame of the opener but Allie Reynolds was replaced by Chubby Dean after giving up a single and issuing a walk. Dean failed to retire a batter, was blasted for two runs and left the mound with the bases loaded. Joe Heving forced the tying run across the plate and was touched for another marker. Just to insure victory the Mackmen hammered Heving for six more runs in the eighth.

The Indians rest today and tomorrow before opening a five-game series with the St. Louis Browns Wednesday at League park.

Rain Cancels Blind Bogey Golf Tourney

Rain forced the cancellation of a blind bogey tournament shedded for the Marion Country Club yesterday but a large number of club golfers toured the Prospect Pike layout in the afternoon.

The bogey tourney will probably be played next Sunday according to Pro Andy K. Dewar.

Part of a putting contest originally scheduled for a week ago on the Country club greens was played yesterday. However, the entire contest could not be completed and will be held over until next Sunday.

Mrs. Andy Dewar, wife of the new pro, served breakfast to all club members and guests in the club house prior to morning golfing.

These nationally-famous harness racing "jocks" will vie for driving honors in the 15-night Little Grand Circuit meeting which will open Thursday night at the half-mile Marion county fairground track. All of the above drivers have previously raced here and are big favorites with Marion area railbirds. Of the sextet pictured above, possibly Wayne Smart is the best known driver. He lives on a farm near Ostrander, drives for the widely-known Joe Neville stable of Delaware and will pilot Senator Abbe in the free-for-all pace highlighting the Marion card. The above group is a representative cross-section of the driving contingent expected to be seen in action by the time the meet ends June 26. Further details of the race meet appears elsewhere on today's sports page.

Former Ohio State Star Wins Mile Run

COLUMBUS, O., June 7—Les Eisenhart, former Ohio State university track star, won his seventh consecutive mile run and his fourth straight half-mile championships in the Ohio A. A. U. track and field meet in Ohio stadium Saturday.

Eisenhart, now a teacher in Port Clinton High school, clipped three-tenths of a second off his state A. A. U. record in the mile, touring the distance in 4:21.4. Eisenhart graduated from Ohio State in 1939.

High point-getter for the meet, however, was Bob Wright, Ohio State's national champion hurdler who completed unattached. He won the 120-yard high hurdlers, 100-yard dash and the discus throw to amass 15 points.

Ohio State's team led the scoring with 44 points. Other leading teams scored behind the Buckeyes in the following order: Columbus East 25, Columbus Central 16, Miami 13, Toledo Waite 10.

15 MARION BOYS TO ATTEND Y.M.C.A. CAMP

Most of Local Groups Expected To Go July 11.

Some 15 Marion boys who are members of the Y. M. C. A. have filed their applications for registration cards for entrance this summer into Camp Nelson Dodd, the official state Y camp located on the Mohican river in Knox county.

Most Marion boys probably will attend the second Nelson Dodd camp session from July 11 to July 23 although some may attend the first period from June 27 to July 9. In charge of the camp this summer is C. Carl May, former boys' work secretary of the Marion Y.M.C.A. Mr. May succeeds E. V. Donaldson, camp director last year, who is now serving in an advisory capacity as visiting coordinator of Y camps in the Ohio-West Virginia Area.

Any additional Marion boys belonging to the Y and wishing to attend Camp Nelson Dodd this summer should contact Marion Mewhorter, boys' program director at the Y. Mr. Mewhorter showed films of the activities and daily life in Nelson Dodd to Marion boys Saturday in the Y assembly room.

Reds Get Dain Clay In Trade with Philadelphia

CINCINNATI, June 7—Dain Clay, twenty-three-year outfielder, obtained by the Cincinnati Reds yesterday in a deal with Bill Cox, owner of the Philadelphia Phillies, will join the Reds when they open a four-game series with the Chicago Cubs in the Windy City Friday, Redleg General Manager Warren C. Giles said today.

Giles announced he traded Charlie Brewster, reserve infielder, for Clay. Hitting about .280 this year for Rochester in the International league, Clay was traded to the Phils last week along with Coaker Triplett and Buster Adams by the Cardinal organization in exchange for Danny Litwhiler and Earl Naylor.

DODGERS OUT OF 1ST SUFFERING ACUTE SHORTSTOP PAINS

St. Louis Cards Go Ahead as Chicago Splits with Brooklyn.

By JUDSON BAILEY
Associated Press Sports Writer

The Brooklyn Dodgers are out of first place and in a dither. The curious club which led the National league from the start of the season until last week-end, when it slipped into the shadow of the St. Louis Cardinals, is afflicted with a malady known as acute sensitivity of the shortstop.

This has been a sore spot for a while the Dodgers have been stumbling through the west. Manager Leo Durocher has remained on the active list this season presumably just to step in when vacations such as this, yet has not played a single game this season.

In recent days he has shuffled Arky Vaughan, rookie Boyd Hartley and reserve catcher Bob Bragan in and out of the job with no credit to anyone. Yesterday the Dodgers managed to beat the Chicago Cubs in the first game of a doubleheader, but were shellacked 11-5 in the nightcap by misadventures by Hartley and Bragan, sharing the shortstop role.

In the first game Whit Wyatt held the Bruins to four hits in 7 1/3 innings but was removed with the score tied at 3-3 after all the Chicago counters had been scored on Dom Dallessandro's triple with the bases loaded in the first inning. Max Macon, who took Wyatt's place, allowed only one hit thereafter and in the 11th inning himself singled home the deciding run for a 4-3 victory.

Meanwhile weather limited the Cardinals' game with the Phillies to five innings and a 1-1 tie. The second game was postponed.

Weather also forced postponement of the Boston Braves' second game at Cincinnati, but the two teams got in a 14-inning opener which the Reds finally won 4-3.

In the other National league action Pittsburgh made 25 runs to the New York Giants' one in sweeping a doubleheader, 18-1 and 7-0.

The New York Yankees preserved their margin in front of the American league with a pair of victories over the St. Louis Browns, 2-1 in 11 innings and 10-6.

Washington's second place Senators, a game behind New York, won twice from Detroit, 5-1 and 8-4.

Boston's Red Sox nosed out Chicago twice 4-3 and 3-2 with ninth inning rallies and Cleveland divided a doubleheader with the Philadelphia Athletics.

The week-end skirmishing ended the intersectional round in the two leagues and all clubs will be idle today and tomorrow except Brooklyn and Pittsburgh, which are billed for a night game tonight on the Pirates' grounds.

Babe Ruth hit 714 home runs during his 22 seasons in the majors.

LORDS WIN DOUBLE BILL FROM COOLER

Rack Up 3 to 1 and 9 to 4 Victories.

Lords Jewelry softball team won its second and third straight games of the 1943 season at Garfield park yesterday by downing Universal Cooler in both ends of a doubleheader, 3 to 1 and 9 to 4.

Holliday and Anderson led the Jewelers in the first encounter by rapping out two hits each while Partlow and Hart each hit safely twice to head the Cooler batsmen. Harold Millisor pitched seven hit ball for the winning Lords team.

Extra base hits by Williams and Holliday in the night cap of the twin bill helped the Jewelers to their easy win. Williams banged out a triple while Holliday hit one for two bases.

Manager Bob Putman announced that his Lords Jewelry team will play a return doubleheader with the Marion Engineer Depot at Garfield park next Sunday at 2 p. m.

Score by innings of yesterday's games:

Sunday Beer Sales Stopped in Morrow Co.

Special to The Star

MT. GILEAD June 7—No. 3.2 beer was sold in Morrow county on Sunday for the first time since the repeal of the 18th amendment.

The county's eight permit holders in Mt Gilead and Cardington decided voluntarily to stop the sale of beer on Sundays after a conference with Sheriff Oscar George, Mayor Ray Booher of Mt Gilead, and Mayor Frank Aliga of Cardington.

Neither municipality has an ordinance at the present time banning Sunday beer sale. Residents of the county voted out the sale of intoxicants, and in every subdivision except Mt. Gilead and Cardington voted out 3.2 beer nearly a decade ago.

Decision of permit holders came as a result of labor shortage, food restrictions brought on by point rationing, and increased week-end drunkenness

Church Points To Prayer As No. 1 Victory Weapon

MRS DAISETTE D S McKENZIE
Incoming President of The First Church of Christ Scientist in Boston, Massachusetts

BOSTON, MASS., June 7 The Christian Science Board of Directors today placed prayer at the top of the list of defense as the effective weapon that free-thinking peoples are counting upon to win the glad war against oppression and suppression.

In a statement to the annual meeting of The Mother Church, The First Church of Christ, Scientist, in Boston, Mass., the directors first emphasized the word "prayer" then followed with the term "miracle of deliverance" which is to be accepted, they said, as the logical answer to righteous prayer

"A praying people can never suffer defeat," declared the directors' report to several thousand Christian Scientists assembled in The Mother Church.

The directors also announced the election of Mrs Daisette D. S McKenzie of Cambridge, Mass. as president of The Mother Church for the ensuing year, succeeding Mrs Elizabeth H. Norwood, of Brookline, Mass

The new president first became interested in Christian Science in 1887 during the very early days of the movement. Hence, Mrs McKenzie became instrumental in the pioneering of this religion in the city of Cleveland. She served ultimately as Reader in First Church of Christ Scientist, Cleveland, and as a member of its board of directors. In 1898 both Mr and Mrs McKenzie were called by Mrs Eddy, the discoverer and founder of Christian Science, to become members of her last class taught in November of that year.

Sleep Jeep Used As Bunion Cure

By Associated Press Features

The Sleep Jeep, a vehicle de-signed to save the ordinary soldier from acquiring bunions, roams the Harding Field air base at Baton Rouge, La., on a regular schedule providing a base bus service for officers and troops. Rambling along at only about eight miles an hour, the Sleep Jeep never has to stop. Passengers just hop on and off. It was tossed together by Capt. Earl M. Gregg, base motor main-tenance officer, who started out with the frame from a wrecked truck, axles from a steam roller.

Now Capt. Gregg has orders to build another.

LOWER PRICES RULE MARKET

Some Strong Spots In Evidence But Many Leaders Down Point Or So.

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, June 7—Irregularly lower prices ruled in today's stock market after a mild opening advance.

While there were a few strong spots in evidence, at one time or another, many leaders in all categories were down fractions to 2 points near the fourth hour. Selling never was urgent, how-ever.

Little was found in the news of war, labor, taxes or business to touch off a fresh buying wave, brokers said, and profits were cashed here and there on the lengthy average climb to new peaks since late 1939.

Occasional gainers included Oli-ver Farm, Armour and Philip Morris. Behind most of the time were U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, J. I. Case, General Motors, Sears Roe-buck, Westinghouse, Anaconda and Goodyear.

WHEAT PRICES HOLD TO NARROW RANGE

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, June 7 — Wheat moved within a narrow range to-day, showing an easy undertone most of the session on moderate hedging and some selling caused by reports of more favorable weather in the winter wheat belt, trade was estimated in view of uncertainty regarding the loan rate on the 1943 crop.

At one time rye moved up above Saturday's finish on un-favorable crop news, but the rally ran into considerable profit-tak-ing and prices soon dropped back. Oats displayed independent strength, aided by strong demand for all feed grains and a slow movement to market.

TROLLEY, BUS CREWS STRIKE IN CLEVELAND

Service In East Side Halted 20 Hours.

By The Associated Press

CLEVELAND, June 7—Street car and bus service on 10 East Side lines was halted for more than 20 hours yesterday when AFL unionists staged an un-authorized work stoppage.

Thousands of war plant workers, churchgoers and Sunday travelers were forced to find other means of transportation when employes at three East Side operating sta-tions walked out shortly after midnight Saturday.

Personnel managers of East Side war plants said the stoppage did not seriously affect production.

Southeast, west side and cross-town lines were not affected.

Union leaders said the men took up the grievance of a group of car repairmen who had been laid off Saturday after they had re-fused to work without time-and-a half for overtime.

Thomas P. Meaney, president of the union local, termed the strike unauthorized.

The city's transportation system was paralyzed by an 18-hour stop-page April 18 when unionists voted to strike after the city failed to meet their demands for a wage increase of 14 cents an hour for street car men and 17 cents for bus drivers.

Methodist Conference Will Close Tuesday

By The Associated Press

The delegates heard Bishop Francis J. McConnell of New York and Gov. Bricker discuss last night relationship of the church and the state.

Bishop McConnell said inability of nations to understand ade-quately the point of view of its neighbors was the fundamental difficulty among nations and de-clared it was the duty of the church to correct that weakness.

Bricker said the problems of the church and the state were inextricably linked together.

In announcing Major Roose-velt's death, the war department gave no details and in the ab-sence of any word to the contrary it was presumed here that death was due to natural causes.

Television To Provide Employment for Many

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, June 7—Television in the post-war period will give jobs to many people in numerous fields, Ralph R. Beal, re-search expert, predicts.

"Television will provide perma-nent new employment for an unu-sually wide range of arts, trades and professions," he said. "It has no aspects of imminent technologi-cal unemployment."

Beal, who is research director of the RAC laboratories, said post-war radio pictures will use camera tubes greatly improved in sensitivity, refined to the point where objects can be picked up with ordinary illumination.

Clears Mistaken Idea of Debt Moratorium

By The Associated Press

CINCINNATI, June 7—A belief among fathers of military age that a "moratorium" would be placed on their debts should they be called to the armed service was termed an "erroneous belief" to-day by Paul W. Steer, chairman of the Soldiers and Sailors Civil Assistance committee of the Cin-cinnati Bar association.

Steer was interviewed following a survey by the Cincinnati En-quirer which showed scores of fathers, including one draft board official, believed that indebted-ness, such as house and furniture mortgages would be held in abey-ance until their return from service.

"There is nothing in the sol-diers' civil relief act of 1940 which relieves a soldier from the actual payment of debts or other obliga-tions which he may have incurred before entering the military serv-ice," Steer said.

"It is only when the soldier's ability to meet his obligations has been impaired because of his mil-itary service that relief is afford-ed and its relief is principally against the penalties that would be imposed for the nonpayment of such obligations," he continued.

Pitfalls of Love

By ADELE GARRISON

MY FATHER is a man of swift decision. He wasted no time on questions, but turned to Mr. Adams, who had not lifted his eyes from his work.

"I'll be back before you've finished," he told him, and following me through the camouflaged door into my bedroom, shut it behind him. As he turned, I held out the note.

"A messenger brought this to Olina just now, making sure that she was alone, and making her promise before he would give it to her, that she would show it to no one."

He took the note, his lips curling in an ironic smile. "I take it that Olina was sensible enough to realize that a promise made under duress is not binding," he said, as he drew a chair forward for me, adding: "I imagine this will take more than a minute."

I saw that even without reading the note, he had sensed the urgency of my errand, and I took the seat he indicated, while he seated himself opposite me, and read the letter through. Then he looked up.

Matter Is Urgent

"Yes, this is urgent," he said. "You did right to bring it directly to me. What was Olina's reaction?"

I told him, and he nodded. "I can imagine she was hard to convince. The forgery of Georges' handwriting is most skillful. Steve Redfield wrote it, of course. But why so much money?"

He did not expect an answer. He was off on one of the mental journeys into space during which he charted his problems. I tried not to make a movement or a sound, but my tense muscles relaxed gratefully when a little later he looked over at me.

"Have you any intuition concerning the woman whom he says Olina is to meet?"

"I thought perhaps it might be Ruth Herrick—" I began, and this time my father's nod of assent was accompanied by a commending smile. "I agree with you," he said, "and banking on your intuition linked with mine, I shall have to change my plan for tonight."

Plan Is Changed

I looked up at him with sudden hope in my eyes. "You mean Katharine may not have to confront Ruth Hayes?"

"I did not say that," he said, "although there is a distinct probability now that I may be able to let her off the whole unsavory business. But one thing is certain. She will not have to see her tonight."

I longed to fly to Katharine with the news, but I forced myself to sit still.

"Just a minute," he said, and rising, went to the door and opened it. "Will you please come here a minute?" he said, and the next instant Adams came through the door, greeted me with grave courtesy, and stood awaiting my father's instructions.

Asks for Messenger

"You may put that mapping aside for the present," he said, "Get busy on this. I want you to find a telegraph station manager who will be willing to co-operate with us on something which will not get him into trouble. Tell him to send a telegraph messenger over to me here for instruction, who can get to a certain address at two o'clock tomorrow morning.

"He need not send him for another two hours," my father went on. "I have some work to do first which will keep me away from here. And when you have completed your errand, come back to your mapping. Better give all your papers to Mrs. Graham. She will lock them up in her own desk for safe keeping, and give them to you again when you come back. I don't want to risk having Milner come into that suite. He's altogether too omnipresent, but thank Heaven his time is short."

Adams looked as if he would like to echo the thanksgiving, and I reflected once more how difficult must be his job of pretending to be Milner's confidential man when, in reality, he was one of my father's most trusted agents.

"I'll get the papers immediately sir," he said, and my father did not speak again until Adams had returned with the papers, handed them to me and left the suite.

Then he said slowly: "I shall have to ask Olina to go through with that performance tomorrow."

YOUR HEALTH

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

New Type Pink Eye

Within the last two years there has been an epidemic of conjunctivitis, or pink eye, which has gone from one end to the other of the United States and has been especially prevalent in industrial plants, particularly those devoted to war industry.

The symptomatology, course and features indicate that it is not like any other form of pink eye with which oculists and general practitioners in medicine have been familiar for many years. It is highly contagious from person to person, which alone renders it different from most forms of conjunctivitis, which are only mildly or moderately contagious.

Most of its manifestations are also more serious than those of previously known forms. It usually begins with a low fever and general fatigue and aching of the bones. The eye at first feels as if dust, or a cinder, or some other foreign body has gotten under the eyelid. One eye is usually affected first, although in most cases the other eye becomes infected within five to eight days.

The eyelids swell and the white of the eye looks very red, although no pus is usually formed. Sometimes there are little membranes which, if removed, leave small bleeding points. The patient is sensitive to light and has to have the eyes closed with a cotton pad or bandage on them, and these have to be changed frequently because of the damming back of tears and other secretions.

In very severe cases the eyeball over the pupil (the cornea) becomes infected and in a few cases some scar tissue remains after the disease has subsided, but this is rare.

The condition runs a self-limited course to full recovery in from 14 to 18 days. This occurs more or less without respect to whatever treatment is used.

The condition, as we have said, is very contagious and runs from person to person in a plant or a neighborhood. The incubation period is from five to 10 days; this is usually determined in plants where one individual is the source of the spread of the infection to others.

Period of Contagion

The person who has this form of pink eye is contagious and capable of spreading the condition to others from the time he begins to be uncomfortable. As soon as the acute symptoms have disappeared he is probably no longer a source of infection. No germ has been discovered as yet in the secretions, although undoubtedly it is some kind of germ disease.

Treatment is palliative during the acute stage and the eyes should be kept clean with irrigations of boric acid or physiological salt solution. Local anesthetics have been used to control the discomfort and the irritating effect of light.

Under prevention, it is very important in any industrial plant that any individual with a red eye should be stopped at the entrance of the plant and sent to the plant physician to determine whether or not this form of conjunctivitis is present.

In some larger plants workers on duty are regularly inspected and anyone with red or inflamed eyes is sent to the medical office for examination. Anybody who treats such a case should be extremely careful that all instruments are sterilized between the times they are used on one person or another.

OFFICER, COME QUI SOMEBODY HAS BR INTO THE OLD HOO HOUSE!
